Late Selling Wave Cuts

Some High Priced Issues.

GENERAL ELECTRIC ADVANCES TO 295

Report That Chicago Federal Reserve Had Failed to Get Approval for Increase in Rate an Influence.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The stock market turned irregular just before the close today after an early outburst of buying had carried more than a score of issues to new high records for the year. Extreme gains in some of the high-priced issues ranged from 5 to 18 points, but some of these were cut down in the late wave of selling. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume.

Retention of the 5 per cent discount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, an increase in the reserve ratio to 73.9 per cent, or 7.2 per cent above the same date last year when bankers' loans were about $1,000,000,000 below the present total; an increase of only $14,000,000 in brokers' loans last week and a drop from $6 to 5 per cent in call money helped to revive bullish sentiment, which had been badly shaken by the flurry in call money rates earlier in the week.

The sudden wave of selling in the late hour was inspired, in part, by the report that the directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank had approved an increase in the discount rate but had failed to obtain the approval of the Federal Reserve Board. A similar situation was reported to exist in New York. Several of the active shares dropped 1 to 5 points below their high levels, with a number of recent favorites such as Radio, American Telephone and American Foreign Power closing with net gains of a point or more.

General Electric to 295. 60 shares enjoyed a temporary rebound of strength on buying influenced by the excellent Standard Oil of New Jersey report, and the announcement of an increase of 1 cent in the price of the stock.

NEGRO GETS LIFE FOR MURDER OF GROCER IN HOLDUP

John Peterson First of Three to Go on Trial for Fatal Shooting of Meyer Kaplan.

DEFENDANT SOUGHT TO ESTABLISH ALIBI

Admits That He Met John Ford, Reputed Accomplice, While Serving Prison Term.

A verdict of life imprisonment for first degree murder was returned in Circuit Court this morning against John Peterson, a Negro, 24 years old, for his part in the fatal shooting last December of Meyer Kaplan, 42 years old, a grocer.

The jury, after an all-day session yesterday and the hearing of testimony until 10:15 o'clock last night, retired at midnight and again deliberated from 8:45 a. m. until 10 a. m. today.

Two other Negroes, Willie Smith, 222 North Sixth street, and John Ford, 2224 Washington avenue, are awaiting trial. Peterson having obtained a severance.

Peterson Sets up Alibi.

Confronted with identification of Peterson by the widow, Mrs. Sarah Kaplan, 4949 Concordia avenue, and her son, Melvin, 10, as one of the three men taking part in the holdup and murder, the defense sought to establish an alibi. Peterson told of being at his home, 1129 North Tenth street, the entire afternoon prior to the holdup and declared he did not leave home until 7:45 p. m. The shooting took place between 6:45 and 7:05 p. m., Saturday, Dec. 15, 1928.

Among defense witnesses corroborating Peterson's claim was Geneva Hanford, 615 Franklin avenue, who asserted she spent the afternoon and part of the evening visiting Peterson's mother, Mrs. Annie Whitehead. She said he was at home all that afternoon and was still there at 7 o'clock. The same testimony was offered by Peterson's older brother, Douglas Peterson.

Denying ever entering the grocery, acquaintance with the Kaplans or with Ford or Smith when questioned by the attorney John H. Leahy, Peterson said he went to a poolroom when he left home at 7:45 p. m. Cross-examined by William Flynn, assistant circuit attorney, he said he did not know Smith at the time of the holdup and only "knew of" Ford. Pressed, he said he had known Ford about six months and presently admitted meeting him while serving a term for larceny in the Missouri State Penitentiary in 1927. He also admitted serving a previous 13-month sentence in the penitentiary for burglary.

Son Describes Shooting.

Sergt. Paul J. Schultz of the Carr Street Police Station, testified for the State that Mrs. Kaplan was positive in her identification of Peterson and Smith six days after the murder. Melvin, he said, promptly identified Peterson and Ford but appeared uncertain as to Smith. Fifteen suspects were arrested in a roundup shortly after the shooting.

Mrs. Kaplan and her son, testifying yesterday, told how the grocer was shot down despite the fact he did not resist the robbers. The son's testimony was that Peterson was the one who vaulted over the counter and pushed a pistol against his father's side. When the other Negro was around the counter, Peterson pressed his pistol against the grocer's right side and the other robber thrust his pistol against the victim's left side. Kaplan died from an abdominal wound in the right side.

SENATE IN CLOSED SESSION CLASHES OVER AN OPEN ONE

Question of Confirming Lenroet Appointment Sidetracked for Publicity Issue.

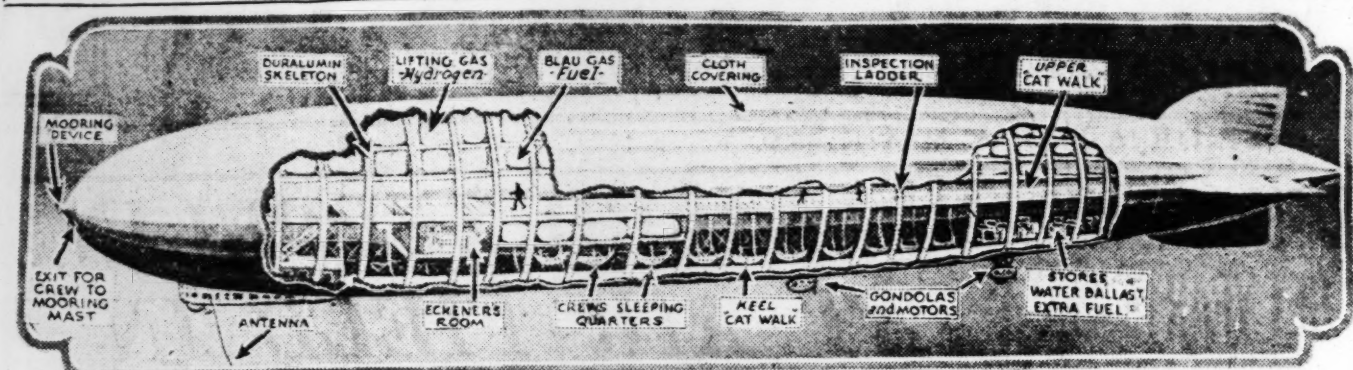

WASHINGTON, May 17.—An extraordinary fight was staged behind the locked doors of the Senate this afternoon over the question of acting in public on the nomination of former Senator Irvine L. Lenroet to be judge of the United States Court of Customs Appeals.

A Democratic-insurgent coalition fought desperately to bring the confirmation fight into the open. The contest against Lenroet was forgotten for the time being in favor of the publicity issue.

A motion by Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska to make the proceedings public first was defeated by a 23 to 24 vote. Then the coalition gathered sufficient votes to adopt a motion, 38 to 36, making the roll call public. Vice President Curtis, however, ruled the public, would require a two-thirds vote rather than the majority vote. This led to a new clash.

Administration leaders meanwhile predicted Lenroet would be confirmed when a decisive vote is taken.

At times the ship hovered motionless, its motors turning at full speed but because of their decreased power, unable to send it forward into the teeth of the wind. When there was progress, it was between gusts.

SLOW TIME MADE ON RETURN TRIP

By the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 17.—The Graf Zeppelin, with three of its five motors dead, fought its way across the mouth of the Rhine at 8 a. m. (11 a. m. St. Louis time) today and began a hard battle with strong headwinds to reach its home port, Friedrichshafen, before dark tonight.

A cold northwest wind cut the speed of the dirigible to 30 kilometers (about 18 1/2 miles) an hour. Messages from Alexander von Krynha, Associated Press correspondent aboard the Zeppelin, said the passengers, including Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York, only woman passenger, were calm.

The dirigible appeared over Nimes, west of Marseilles, at 9:20 a. m., struggling hard against the wind. Twenty minutes later it appeared almost immovably over Leidegare and 10 minutes later it seemed to be progressing again to the northeast at a height of about 2500 feet.

The falling of the third motor was unexplained, a message from Von Krynha to the Associated Press merely stating it had stopped. He ascribed the loss of speed, however, mostly to the violent wind. He said Dr. Eckener did not expect to reach Friedrichshafen until tonight.

The Zeppelin reached the French coast at 7 a. m. at Saintes Maries de la Mer, after it had sent a radiogram to the French Government requesting permission to return to France on its way home. The permission was granted immediately.

Travelled 850 Miles.

First word of the failure of the Graf Zeppelin's trans-Atlantic venture came yesterday after the ship had been sighted over the Mediterranean Sea near the Balearic Islands, having traveled 850 miles on its way to Lakehurst, N.J.

Wireless messages from the dirigible said Dr. Eckener at 6:35 p. m., after consulting his officers and telling the passengers of the trouble which had developed in two of the engines, decided to return to Friedrichshafen. Dr. Eckener reported his position as about 20 nautical miles southeast of Cape de la Nao, southern coast of Spain.

Eckener said he could not assume responsibility for flying over the sea with two motors out of commission. A garbled radio message, delayed in transmission, from Von Krynha, said:

"Just informed by Dr. Eckener that we unfortunately are obliged to return to Friedrichshafen because of defect in machinery, two broken motor shafts. The passengers are disappointed, but very calm, as is Mrs. Pledge."

At 11 p. m., Greenwich time (5 p. m. St. Louis time) Von Krynha informed the Associated Press as follows: "Have just seen Barcelona, Spain. Now flying direct to Marseilles, France, with only three motors. Speed 30 kilometers (50 miles), height 500 meters (1640 feet). Passengers very much depressed and regretful."

Although the Zeppelin company at Friedrichshafen heard the wireless of the dirigible frequently, the company did not press the ship with radio messages, realizing it needed every minute for reception of weather reports, which the Zeppelin works itself was unable to furnish.

Up to the time of the Graf Zeppelin's mishap, it had made splendid progress. After leaving Friedrichshafen Thursday at 5:57 a. m., it was sighted over Basel, then Lyon, Nimes, France, and Barcelona, Spain. Cape de la Nao, Spain, near where it was forced to turn back, is about 200 miles down the Spanish coast from Barcelona.

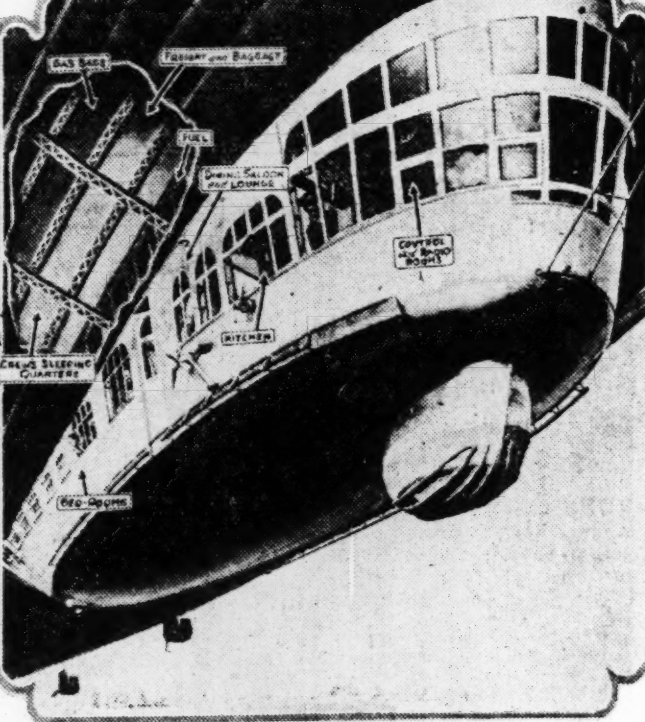

The average speed prior to the mishap was more than 60 miles an hour.

That the present defect could be the result of sabotage, was regarded as impossible here, since only workmen of many years standing had had the motors in charge.

Gloom hung heavy over the Zeppelin works and the Maybach works today, and it was thought the Graf Zeppelin might not start again for some time, if at all.

In any case, its return is considered a terrible blow to Zeppelin prestige. The only comfort for the constructors of the big airship lies in the fact that the accident has shown that a dirigible can navigate even when disabled.

One theory advanced to explain the accident was that in an effort to make a record journey to the United States this time, the engineer had overstrained the motors. It is pointed out that the Graf Zeppelin has already traveled about 31,000 miles since it was built.

THE various inside compartments of the Graf Zeppelin are shown in the above photograph. The lower is a closeup of the main gondola in which are the pilot cabin, radio room, kitchen, dining room and quarters for the passengers, all well equipped. The crew's quarters are in the steel frame of the giant dirigible.

WANTED TO JUMP OFF IN A PARACHUTE BUT DR. ECKENER SAID NO

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN.

May 17 (Vio radio). MAURICE NATHAN of New York, one of the American passengers on the disabled Graf Zeppelin, asked permission from Dr. Hugo Eckener today to leap from the ship attached to a parachute.

When permission was refused, Nathan became resigned to the tedious journey.

The defect, as is well known, was not for the purpose of deliberate consideration, but for the purpose of so delaying the bills that they would have a place so far down on the calendar that they would not be reached.

"Unless this bill is taken out of its regular order, if reached at all it will not be until the last day of the session, when by a filibuster a vote on it can be prevented. I have no doubt that such an attempt would be made."

"An insidious lobby has worked day and night to prevent legislative consideration of this measure. There have been many insinuations and charges and the senators should have an opportunity to vote on it."

Senator Warner objected to the motion, and was followed by Sen-

not been shanghaied in both the Senate and the House. All members of the Senate are familiar with the manner in which it was delayed in the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence. One House member told me he and other members succeeded in delaying it in the House committee more than six weeks.

The delay, as is well known, was not for the purpose of deliberate consideration, but for the purpose of so delaying the bills that they would have a place so far down on the calendar that they would not be reached.

"An insidious lobby has worked day and night to prevent legislative consideration of this measure. There have been many insinuations and charges and the senators should have an opportunity to vote on it."

ator Casey with his objections.

Senator Hindeth upheld the 42 per cent interest rate and objected to taking the bill out of order.

Senator Whitcomb said in his opinion there was ample reason for making an exception of this bill and giving it immediate consideration.

"I think the 42 per cent law should be repealed outright," he said, "but we will have no opportunity to vote to cut the rate of interest, to outlaw salary buying and to place restrictions about the small loan business."

"Sinister influences have been at work, the salary buyers, in my opinion, having used the greatest influence against the bill."

Calls is "Public Scandal." Senator Wammack said that "a public scandal" had resulted from the small loan legislation.

"I became convinced very early," he said, "that the small loan bill would be smothered in the committee on criminal jurisprudence. The newspapers, rightly or wrongly, have imputed bad motives to those who attempted to delay the legislation, and a public scandal has resulted."

"I congratulate the Senator from Cape Girardeau (Dearmont) for his effort a few days ago to force the committee to report out the Senate bills. While he lost in this Senate he gained in popular esteem."

To Outlaw Salary Buying. Under the Dearmont motion today, the House bill will be taken up tomorrow morning for passage. It passed the House with a provision for a reduction in the legal interest rate on small loans, from 2 1/2 per cent a month to 2 per cent a month, a provision for the regulation of the small loan business and a provision for outlawing salary buying.

In the Senate Judiciary Committee, an amendment was adopted striking out the reduction in the interest rate, but leaving in the bill the other provisions. When the matter comes up tomorrow one of the first questions to be voted on will be the committee amendment striking out the reductions in the interest rate. When that is disposed of the vote on the passage of the bill will be taken.

Fearful of More Deaths.

Fear that 89 per cent of the surviving victims would die in not more than a few days was expressed today by Harry L. Rockwood, City Health Commissioner, and concurred in by a number of doctors and chemists.

"Nitro oxide and carbon monoxide were the two gases that were created in the explosion of the X-ray films at the clinic," Rockwood said. "Both were found in high percentages in the blood of the victims examined by Coroner Pearce—as high as 30 per cent, with the saturation so exceptional, as to be almost fatal."

The Cleveland Clinic will be rebuilt under plans being formed today by a committee of 35 citizens. Dr. George W. Crile, one of the founders of the institution and its director, will be at the head of the new clinic.

The surgeon, who gained international renown through his research and other medical discoveries, laid plans with the committee for re-establishment of the institution. The loss from the explosion and fire was set today at $750,000, principally in medical records.

HOSPITAL EXPLOSION LAID TO LEAKING STEAM PIPE

Produced Spontaneous Combustion of X-Ray Films in Cleveland Clinic, Fire Wardens Declare in Report.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., May 17.—State officials investigating the explosion and fire in the Cleveland Clinic, in which 125 persons lost their lives, largely through inhalation of poisonous gases, today laid the origin of the fire to spontaneous combustion. Escaping steam from a leaky pipe supplied the heat that set off the X-ray films in a storage room. Deputy Fire Warden Gross and Fire Warden Pearce, after his first day's investigation, reported.

Coroner Pearce, after his first day's investigation, said he had failed to find any evidence of negligence on the part of any one connected with the clinic. Neither did he attempt to place the responsibility for the disaster. Earlier in the day Coroner Pearce had been inclined to think carelessness might have been responsible.

Apparently Uninjured, But Dies. One more victim of gas died early today. Ben Jones, 29 years old, fullback on the 1925 Canton, O., Bull Dog football team, died at his home in Grove City, Pa. Jones was one of the first persons removed from the clinic after the blast. He told friends yesterday he felt no ill effects from the experience and yesterday morning drove his car to Grove City, a 150-mile trip. Late last night Jones collapsed and he died within a few hours with his young wife and two-year-old daughter at his bedside.

It is feared that all those who eventually will succumb to the poisonous fumes have not been counted. Three firemen and three policemen who aided in rescue work went to hospitals last night. Others were ill at their homes, among them Fire Battalion Chief Graham.

90-DAY DOWNTOWN PARKING TEST ENDED

Brooks Wants Permanent Ordinance to Keep Washington, Olive, Locust Clear

Trial of a daytime, no-parking rule on Washington, Olive and Locust streets between Third and Twelfth boulevards ended yesterday. Believing the showed that traffic had been unimpeded and pedestrians aided by the clearing business, Director of Public Works Brooks had proposed for introduction in the Board of Aldermen today an ordinance make the rule permanent.

Director Brooks has asked the Advisory Traffic Commission, an agency co-operating with the government and the Safety Council of which Oliver T. Remmers, chairman, to study the advance of public hearings on the bill.

At present, it appears, there will be no enforcement of parking regulations on these three streets during the 90-day experiment. The streets are subject to general downtown parking which prohibits parking for more than 15 minutes at a time between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. The police Traffic Bureau referred inquiries about enforcement to the Street Department. There, City Traffic Engineer Hoffman said that until parking terms of the general law are erected on Washington, Olive and Locust streets, the decision has not been reached, he probably will erect the soon.

The proposed new rule for three streets would prohibit parking between Fourth and Twelfth streets from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. except for a one-hour allowance for commercial vehicles loading and unloading. The bill carries an emergency clause.

In a letter to Remmers yesterday Director Brooks said:

"In line with our past policy ask the Advisory Traffic Commission, representing a cross-section of interests affected, to study this problem. After a study is made we shall be better positioned to tell more of the Legislative Committee of Board of Aldermen 'the points of the proposed ordinance as well as any weak points may have developed."

"There has been no question about the expediting of this lessened hazard of parking crossing these streets with unobstructed view. The city really is to be helped by effect there has been in downtown business on these three streets."

"The introduction of the ordinance in the Board of Aldermen to put into proper hands the problem so that all interests given public hearings should survive at the facts. Before the ordinance can be enacted and discussions are going on every day have had a chance to be heard out a scheme to defraud, showing the only result would be ruin."

"Somebody lost some money. It's true, but Mr. Griebel was not a cause of it."

Intent to Defraud Denied. Busch's lawyers, Patrick H. Cullen and James E. Carroll, denied there was any intent to defraud.

Busch made every possible inquiry to safeguard himself and his clients and even invested his own money in the bonds," said Cullen. The Government contends the bonds were poison right from the start, and yet Busch took the loss.

"This was simply a business failure. If the Government intends to prosecute on a mail fraud charge every person connected with a business failure, then the jurors themselves had better be careful about business ventures."

Still, MASH AND ALCOHOL SEIZED; GROCER ARRESTED

A still of 50 gallons daily capacity and a 20-gallon condenser were found in operation in a secret room in a garage when police raided the place yesterday afternoon in response to an anonymous letter. Edward Murawski, residing at 1415 Locust street, in front of the garage, was arrested.

He disclaimed all knowledge of the room and apparatus and said he rented the structure to a man known as Joe. Police also seized eight barrels containing 40 gallons of whiskey mash and 60 gallons of alcohol.

Arrest, Takes Poison

Facing arrest on a charge of attempted kidnaping for trying to rescue his 13-year-old cousin to escape with him yesterday, Leonard M. Mueggen, Mich., took poison. He is in a serious condition at City Hospital. Wells was arrested on complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Chester McClard, 1410 Dillon street.

Their daughter, Mabel, on her way to the McKinley High School yesterday noon, was accosted by Wells, who pleaded with her to go away with him, the parents said.

MURRY GETS CASE OF W. A. BUSCH AND ASSOCIATE

Mail Fraud Trial of Former St. Louis Broker and Cleveland Architect Nears End.

J. S. COUNSEL CITES CLAIMS FOR BONDS

Securities Advertised as 'Fool-Proof' Were Not So, He Says—Architect's Lawyer Makes Plea.

The case of William A. Busch, former St. Louis broker, and George A. Griebel, Cleveland architect, on trial in Federal Court on charges of using the mails to defraud investors in selling bonds on Cleveland, is being continued to the next session of the court, following argument by counsel and instructions by Judge Watkins today.

In opening his arguments, Assistant United States Attorney Stettin declared the Government had proved that the defendants had fraudulently continued to sell bonds of the Securities Guaranteed Corporation, after they had learned at a conference in Cleveland, June 29, 1925, that the buildings on which the bonds had been issued could not be completed owing to the sudden death and doubtful solvency of Thomas G. Sloan, head of the company.

Busch, who sold $500,000 of the bonds, including $48,000 worth to himself and members of his family, was informed at the conference that Sloan's estate was solvent and would furnish funds to complete the buildings. Griebel, an officer of the Securities Guaranteed Co., testified he was engaged in designing and supervising building and did not participate in selling. Both defendants admitted their predicament to mislead confidence in Sloan, who was rated a millionaire.

Did these bonds, which were advertised as "fool-proof," truly guarantee and good as Government bonds prove to be that? Stettin asked the jury. "Of course not, they would not be almost worthless today."

The bonds were said not to depend upon men, management or events, yet after Sloan died, the company collapsed and bondholders received but a few dollars of what they had paid for them.

Charles A. Houts, attorney for Griebel, who is 35 years old, told the jury his client was an architect, not a financier, and had nothing to do with the bond sales.

"The charge against Griebel is that he was a party to a scheme to defraud, and you think this man, with a reputation to protect and a family to support and cherish, would willingly and recklessly devise and carry out a scheme to defraud, knowing the only result would be ruin?"

"True, but Mr. Griebel was not a cause of it."

Intent to Defraud Denied. Busch's lawyers, Patrick H. Cullen and James E. Carroll, denied there was any intent to defraud.

Busch made every possible inquiry to safeguard himself and his clients and even invested his own money in the bonds," said Cullen. The Government contends the bonds were poison right from the start, and yet Busch took the loss.

90-DAY DOWNTOWN PARKING TEST END

Books Wants Permanent License to Keep Washington, Olive, Locust Clear.

At present, it appears, there is no enforcement of parking regulations on these three streets. The 90-day special law leaves these streets subject to general downtown parking which prohibits parking in places but permits it on an hour basis between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. The police Traffic Bureau and Olive prosecution attorneys cannot be effective, as no one has been reached, probably will erect the sign.

The proposed new rule for these streets would prohibit parking between Fourth and Third streets, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., except one-hour allowance for commercial vehicles loading and unloading. The bill carries an emergency clause.

In a letter to Remmers yesterday, Director Brooks said: "In line with our past policy, the Advisory Traffic Committee, representing a cross-section of interests affected, to make study of this problem. After study is made we shall be in a better position to tell more clearly the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen the merits of the proposed ordinance as well as any weak points it may have developed."

"There has been no question about the expediting of these streets with no lessened hazard of pedestrian crossing these streets with unobstructed vision. The only question really is to be decided as to whether there has been on downtown streets on these three streets."

"The introduction of the ordinance in the Board of Aldermen put into proper hands this problem so that all interests may be given public hearings and thus be at the facts. Before this ordinance can be enacted and while sessions are going on every one had a chance to compare these streets under both systems of regulation."

DOROTHY KNAPP SUES AMBASSADOR'S WIDOW

Actress Charges Mrs. Penfield Caused Her Dismissal From Role in "Fioretta."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 17.—A suit for $250,000 in which Dorothy Knapp, actress, charges Mrs. Anne Penfield, widow of Ambassador Frederick C. Penfield, with causing her dismissal from the leading role of "Fioretta" was on file in Supreme Court today.

Earl Carroll, producer; Evelyn Hubbell, Mrs. Penfield's secretary; George L. Bagby and Romilly Johnson, composers, and the Vanities Producing Co. also are defendants.

The complaint charges that Mrs. Penfield backed the show for $250,000 through her secretary, who appeared as the "range" while the real backer's name was not connected with the production. Mrs. Penfield put up the money, the complaint asserts, because she wished to help the composers of the score, Bagby and Johnson.

Miss Knapp said in her complaint that she had a six-month contract from Dec. 31 last to play the leading role at $1000 a week.

She charges that the defendants caused her dismissal from the part April 17, "maliciously and willfully intending to injure her and her standing in the profession and to deprive her of her wages."

Miss Knapp was originally a Polles girl and later appeared in several productions of Earl Carroll's Vanities. When Carroll was in the Federal prison at Atlanta, for perjury in connection with his "girl in the bathtub" case, she was in the cast of "Fioretta," a musical revue, when it opened at the Earl Carroll Theater, last Feb. 5. It was described as the most elaborate production Carroll had undertaken. The show closed last Saturday. Vivienne Vance supervised. Miss Knapp as prima donna for the last three weeks of the run.

TELLS COURT BOARDER DROVE HIM FROM HIS OWN HOME

Mechanic, Whose Wife Is Suing for Divorce, Gets Temporary Custody of Children.

Fred H. Jones, a mechanic employed by the Pullman Co., answered temporary custody of his two children today after he had testified before Circuit Judge Hogan in the Court of Domestic Relations that a former prohibition agent had driven him out of his own home when he called there to see the children after he and his wife had become estranged.

The court order will be in force until the divorce suit of Mrs. Mary E. Jones, 4056 A Minnesota avenue, is tried. Mrs. Jones charges general indignities.

Jones, who is 29, a year older than his wife, testified that the man who drove him from his home is now a lawyer.

"We had known him quite a while," said Jones. "He used to take us out with him as decoys to get evidence so he could raid places. I didn't like to drink and stopped going. Then he took my wife as a decoy. Finally he began to board with us. When my wife left him some of my savings, I left."

Mrs. Jones told the judge she worked in a restaurant and employed a woman to look after her children, Frederick, who is 9 years old, and LaVerne, 6. The Jones were married April 10, 1918.

Police Campaign to Continue Today and Tomorrow, Interfering With Betting on the Derby.

In the third day of their announced campaign to put handbook makers out of business by repeated raids, police throughout the city yesterday visited 88 places and arrested 91 men.

To date, there have been 217 raids and 302 arrests. The same places have been visited daily, in some districts the same persons arrested and taken to the same police stations, there to be booked "suspects of gambling" and forced to furnish bond. They will not be prosecuted, as the campaign is one of harassment.

"I'm getting tired of this — it keeps me away from my business," one "bookie" complained.

One woman arrested. She was Miss Seva Ellis, proprietor of a restaurant at 608 North Taylor avenue, where she was taken in custody. She told the police she was 37 years old, and lived at 1508 South Spring avenue. Police said they found a marked racing form in her establishment.

LILLI LEHMANN, FAMOUS OPERA SINGER, 80, DIES

Star of Last Quarter of Last Century Succumbs in Berlin Where She Had Been Teaching.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 17.—Lilli Lehmann, a great opera singer in her day, died today. She was 80 years old.

A Star Among Stars of Opera Stage, Active on Eightieth Birthday.

DURING the last quarter of the nineteenth century Lilli Lehmann was one of the most powerful operatic magnets of two continents—an outstanding star in years when the musical drama stage boasted such great artists as Lillian Nordica, Minnie Hauk, Marcella Sembrich, Emma Eames and Emma Juch among prima donnas, and Albert Niemann, Max Alvary, Jean and Edouard de Reszke, Paul Plancon and Victor Maurel among the male singers.

Mme. Lehmann was born at Wurzburg, Germany, Nov. 24, 1848. Her mother was Marie Lehmann, a harpist of note and a prima donna who was the original heroine of some of the operas of the composer Spohr. Lilli was taught singing and music by her mother and made her debut at Prague when she was 20 years old. She afterward appeared at Danzig and Leipzig. Her first appearance at Berlin was in August, 1870, as Viekla in Meyerbeer's "Feldlager in Schlesien," singing with such success that she was engaged there as a light soprano, remaining until 1885.

Meanwhile, Mme. Lehmann aided in the inauguration of the great musical festivals of Bayreuth sponsored by Richard Wagner. She was the last survivor of the group of operatic stars who sang the "Nibelungenring" in 1875, with the famous composer conducting.

BOMB DAMAGES NEW APARTMENT NEAR FOREST PARK

Owner of Building Under Construction on Art Hill Place Says He Has Had No Labor Trouble.

An explosion felt throughout the southwestern portion of the city and in parts of St. Louis County early today caused damage estimated at $2000 to a 36-family apartment house under construction on the east side of Art Hill place about 100 feet south of Oakland avenue.

Three charges of dynamite, exploded simultaneously at 1:20 a. m., blasted a hole about 20 feet square in the foundation of the building. Windows were blown out of homes in the vicinity.

Philip Siteman, a contractor, 5530A Ashland avenue, owner of the building, said he knew no reason for the bombing. He employs union and non-union men, but has had no trouble with labor organizations, he said.

The only work done on the building so far has been done by union laborers, Siteman said. Union stone masons have completed the foundation and union iron workers had begun to erect the steel framework he said.

Joseph O'Donnell Loses Car in Forest Park, Half Hour Later It Is Used in Tower Grove Holdup.

Conrad L. Schopp, 2601 Pennsylvaniana avenue, and a woman companion, seated in his automobile on the north drive in Tower Grove Park, at 2:30 a. m. today, were forced to get out by two men who robbed Schopp of $20 and a diamond ring he valued at $60. The robbers examined the rings on his companion's hands, but did not take them.

The robbers used a new Buick coupe stolen half an hour previously from Joseph O'Donnell, 4023 Kennerly avenue, who was seated in the car, with a woman companion, at the Union boulevard entrance to Forest Park when held up.

Police are holding a revolver which a nervous robber dropped in the gutter after he and an accomplice had obtained $12 in a holdup at the drug store of William Gieseking, 2001 Cherokee street. The robbers drove away without stopping to pick up the weapon.

Walking near his home, Wayne Mullins, 4563 McMillan avenue, a Kroger store manager, was compelled to enter an automobile occupied by three men and was driven to Cass and Garrison avenues, where he was robbed of $42.50 and put out.

Other holdups: Kroger store, 1149 Blackstone avenue, $58; Kroger store, 4300 Linton avenue, $104.75.

SPEAKER BRUSHES ASIDE SMITH AND RASKOB AS PARTY CHIEFS

M. D. Lightfoot Chairman of National Constitutional Democratic Committee Addresses Women.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 17.—Asserting that both Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob had forfeited all claims to party leadership, M. D. Lightfoot, of Springfield, Mo., chairman of the National Constitutional Democratic Committee, in an address here today before the State Convention of the Women's Democratic Enforcement League, made a plea for the planning of constructive issues to replace "the false issues brought out by our party leaders last summer."

"Tammany, by defeating Al Smith and electing his bitter enemy, John Curry, as its chief, completely eliminated Smith from any claim to national leadership of the Democratic party," he said. "John J. Raskob, by advocating that the Democratic party again make the wet issue supreme for the 1932 campaign has effectively eliminated himself, just as quickly as a reunited Democratic electorate can get an opportunity to vote for National Committeemen." Lightfoot advocated strict enforcement of all laws, with a pledge to enforce the eighteenth amendment in particular; a direct stand against the accumulations of wealth into the hands of a few and the enforcement of the anti-trust laws, and the reduction to a revenue basis of the tariff on necessities.

Engineer at Convention Describes Grid Glow Tube, Sensitive to Noise, as Boom.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., May 17.—The grid glow tube, now acting as traffic director at some street intersections, will in the future afford flyers immediate and well-lighted havens in fogs and darkness when trouble arises, L. C. Simpson, South Bend (Ind.) engineer for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., told the National Airport Convention here today.

The tube can be made sensitive to a particular sound, such as that of a siren on a plane. The siren would cause the tube to turn on, flood lights at small fields, close together and unmanned, where a flyer in difficulty could alight.

Prediction that hazards of flying will be increased in the next two years by an increase to 100,000 in the number of privately operated airplanes was made by William B. Stout, Detroit airplane magnate.

DENIES NAMING INSULL IN BID FOR BOSTON POST

C. J. O'Malley Tells Trade Commission His $20,000,000 Offer Was on Behalf of New Yorkers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, May 17.—Charges that Harvard University's bulletins during the investigation of the interstate activities of the power trust a year ago were paid for by the National Electric Association, were made this afternoon by the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, Democratic member of the State House of Representatives, before the House Ways and Means Committee, at the hearing on a resolution calling for a special committee to make an investigation of the activities and financing in Massachusetts.

Chairman Henry L. Shattuck announced that he had invited Henry C. Atwell, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, to address the committee on the resolution Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Charles J. O'Malley, a Boston advertising man, in testimony today before the Federal Trade Commission denied he had mentioned the name of Samuel Insull, Illinois utilities magnate, or had been authorized to represent the Insull power interest in a purported $20,000,000 cash offer for the purchase of the Boston Post.

He added, however, he had proposed the buying of the post and also the Boston Globe to officers of those newspapers on behalf of a New York stock broker and a New York bond salesman.

At yesterday's hearing of the commission, Richard Grozier, editor and publisher of the Boston Post, said O'Malley had made a $20,000,000 offer for his newspaper on behalf of the Insull interests to C. D. Carberry, managing editor of the Boston Post.

In his testimony today O'Malley said in his conversations with Carberry the latter had suggested the name of Insull.

Says Banks Were the Bidders.
O'Malley said two men on "Feb. 11 or 12, 1929," whom he named as Campion, a bond salesman, and Collier, a stock broker, both of New York, came to his advertising agency office and told him they would be interested in buying the Post or the Globe for two banks in New York and Chicago respectively which they claimed to represent. "The name of Insull," he said, "was not mentioned by them."

Campion and Collier did not disclose the names of the two banks, he declared, but they said the banks were interested in purchasing "fifty or sixty newspapers from Maine to California, including probably five in New England."

"At the present time they told me they were negotiating for one large newspaper," he continued. "I think it was the Indianapolis News. They told me that as an advertising man I could get in touch with the Boston newspaper publisher."

Boston Globe Refused Offer.
O'Malley said he with the two men then went to see William O. Taylor, of the Boston Globe, but the latter informed him the Globe was not for sale and would not be sold "as long as any member of the Taylor family is alive." Taylor, he added, declared the Globe was "a New England institution." The witness said after his call upon Taylor he went to see Louis Marchand, business manager of the Post, and was advised by him that the Post was not for sale. He added he then told Campion and Collier that the Post could not be purchased and "as far as I knew there was not a newspaper in Boston which could be bought."

Later the same week O'Malley said he went to see Carberry and after discussing general matters asked whether the Post was for sale and then told the Post managing editor about the two New York men's proposals. He added, he never had made an offer to Carberry to buy the Post and that the Post managing editor had brought the name of Insull into the conversation. He said he was unable to furnish the full names or addresses of Campion or Collier.

In a statement issued at Chicago, Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Co., and brother of Samuel Insull, who is in Europe, said he had never heard of O'Malley, and that he knew of no negotiations with his interests to buy the Post or any other newspaper.

Denies Power Entanglements.
R. B. Chandler, publisher of the Mobile, Ala., Press, told the Federal Trade Commission today that no power company "directly or indirectly" had any financial interests in his newspapers.

The Alabama inquiry was requested by Senator Norris, (Rep.) Nebraska.

Chandler described how the Mobile Press was organized in April of this year after conferences he had with D. B. Bestor, president of the First National Bank of Mobile, and other citizens of that city who, he said, were desirous of starting a newspaper.

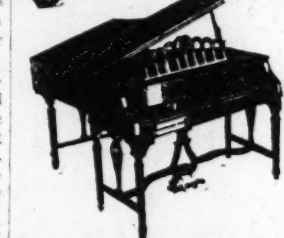

The Alabama Power Co. has not been mentioned in connection with the press, the witness said, except by the Frederick I. Thompson newspapers, "which wanted to maintain a monopoly in the field." Norris in his letter to the commission had mentioned the Alabama Power Co. as holding financial interests in the newspapers.

BOY SCOUT PATROLS CAMP IN FOREST PARK

Picked Members to Compete in Three-Day Program — Pageant Tomorrow Night.

Picked patrols of Boy Scouts, representing 98 troops pitched their tents in the old aviation field at Forest Park this afternoon, opening the second annual camp-rally under the auspices of the St. Louis Council. The scouts will remain in camp three days and will participate in a rigorous competitive program of scoutcraft.

Camp will be made each day from 4 to 7 p. m. and the boys will be graded on the efficiency and speed with which they pitch their tents. Four district council fires will be lit each night at 8 o'clock. Taps will sound at 10 o'clock. Finals of the bugle contest, with a silver bugle going to the champion of each district, will be held to-night.

Other competitive events will include: First aid, use of the compass, tying of knots, fire building, signalling, handicraft, map reading, cooking, and axmanship.

The patrol whose members have made the highest scores will be declared the winner of the contest at the end of the camp-rally, on Sunday. About 40,000 persons visited the encampment last year and scout officers have invited the public again this time.

More than 1000 scouts will reconstruct a scene in history tomorrow night through a pageant depicting the visit of Father Marquette to the Indians. It will be given at the Hill, in Forest Park, and will open at 7:45 o'clock with a concert by the Sixth Infantry Band of Jefferson Barracks.

The priests, led by Father Marquette, played by Warren J. Carroll, former assistant scoutmaster of Troop 159, and Joliet, played by Marshall Matteson, will row across the lake and be met by tribes of Indians, who, reassured as to their peaceful intentions, assist in the erection of a crude cross. The gathering of the tribes and other incidents of the pageant afford the scouts opportunity to dance the traditional dances of the Redskins. Arthur Werder, Troop 34, will be the chief medicine man. Ted Muschany, Troop 107, will be chief. Roy Birckicht, Troop 178, will be an Indian rider and the pioneers and woodsmen will be led by Fielding Chandler.

cial interests in newspapers in that State.

"A Man" $100,000 Backer.

Chandler said he had entered into a contract with "a man" in Mobile who would put up $100,000 for him on the collateral of his stock in the Mobile Press. This man, he continued, was not associated with any power company, but I do not want to divulge his name because of the vicious persecution that might occur for him by the Thompson papers.

He added that he had placed collateral aggregating $120,000 in stock of the Mobile Press with this man for a loan up to $100,000. Robert E. Heasley, chief commissioner counsel, insisted the name of this man be divulged.

"I don't think our task will be conclusive or complete," Healy declared, "if you do not tell us the name of the man who is backing your newspaper."

"I don't want to make it public for Thompson's benefit," Chandler replied.

Later Chandler agreed to give the name of the man referred to to Healy and chairman McCulloch after they told him that they would not make it public unless it became necessary.

Former Governor on Stand.

The International's acquisition last January of 50 per cent of the stock of the Boston Herald and the Traveler formed the subject of testimony yesterday by Channing Cox, a former Bay State Governor, and Frank D. Comerford of Boston, vice president and treasurer of the International Power & Paper Co.

Cox, a director of the Boston Publishing Co., which publishes the two newspapers, testified he had assisted in the organization of the Publishers' Investment Co., established to hold the International's stock. Comerford declared he had opposed the International stock purchases in the two newspapers.

A fourth witness, Neil C. Head of New York, assistant to the president of the International Paper Co. and a vice president of the International Power & Paper Co., testified concerning the efforts of William Lavarre and Harold Hall to purchase newspapers in the southeastern section of the country with the backing of the International.

Bought Dailies for Concern.

Lavarre and Hall, it was developed in previous testimony, purchased the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and the Spartanburg (S. C.) Journal and the Herald, with advances from the International totaling $370,000 in notes secured by the stock of these newspapers.

A letter from Archibald R. Graustein, president of the International Power & Paper Co. to Robert E. Healy, chief commissioner counsel, which was placed in the record, declared the International "never contemplated any arrangement under which we were to have anything to do with the running of the (Hall-Lavarre) papers."

NOTE PINNED TO TAX RETURN BASIS OF TWO INDICTMENTS

Message From California's Counselor Says, "We Can Get By With It"

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 17.—A note which Federal income tax inspectors said they found pinned on the return of Louis E. Barnett, wealthy Long Beach and Pasadena shoe store owner, was the basis of indictments returned here charging the merchant and his income tax counselor with conspiracy to defraud the Government.

The note, which officials said apparently had been left unintentionally on the tax report, thereby becoming "documentary evidence of fraud," read:

"This is the best I can do for you. I have listed $1760 as an item for legal advice. Of course, I didn't charge that, but we can get by with it because I don't have to file an income tax return."

Officials said the note was from Barnett's counselor, George C. Terry, Los Angeles.

MISSOURI HOUSE PASSES BUDGET BILL, 112 TO 7

Governor's Demand for This Legislation Sweeps Away Organized Opposition of Becker Forces.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 17.—Under the spur of Gov. Caulfield's demand for passage of a budget bill providing adequate powers for budget making, the House late yesterday passed the Cave-Donnelly Senate bill after amending it in a manner tending to strengthen rather than weaken it. The House adopted the Governor's suggestion of expediency by removing a proposed section that would have required all State institutions to pay all fees into the State Treasury, a section which would have made almost certain the defeat of the bill in the Senate.

Under the force of the Governor's influence, the opposition which Secretary of State Becker had organized against budget legislation, melted away, and when the measure came to passage only seven votes were recorded against, while it received 112 affirmative votes.

A final effort to defeat the bill was made on the floor by Representative James T. Blair Jr. of Jefferson City, a Democrat, and Waltham M. Moore, a Negro member from St. Louis, who in between times as a legislator, is a clerk under Becker, but they were in a hopeless minority.

The bill as it will go back to the Senate for concurrence in the House amendment is as good, and perhaps a better bill, than when it left the Senate, being a combination of the Cave-Donnelly Senate bill and of the Bales House bill.

Tax Commission Retained.

There are only two material differences between the bill as it passed the Senate, and as amended in the House. One is that while the Senate measure proposed to abolish the State Tax Commission and substitute for it a new Department of Budget and Revenue to which would be given the budget making powers and to which would be transferred the present duties of the Tax Commission, the amended bill continues the Tax Commission and places on it the duty of preparing the budget.

The other change is that the House wrote into the bill specific directions as to the form the budget should take, while the Senate bill left the form to the discretion of the Commission.

The retention of the Tax Commission was to some extent a matter of expediency, as it removed the opposition of a group of House members who were opposed to legislating out of office the present members of the Commission. The term of the chairman, J. T. Waddill, Republican, does not expire until June 1933, and that of Forrest Smith, a Democrat, until June 1931. That of the third member, C. M. Danuser, expires next month, and the indications are that he will not be reappointed because of his activity two years ago in soliciting business for a lawyer friend from public utility companies, which had tax matters pending before the Commission.

While the bill is thought to be as strong as it could be made under the Constitution, it has the weakness of providing meager salaries for the members of the Commission. Notwithstanding the important duties, the salary of the chairman is fixed at only $4000 a year, and that of the other members at $3500 each. The Senate bill fixed the salary of the Chairman at $5000, and that of the other Commissioners at $4500.

Wide Powers Given Commission. Under the act the Commission will have full power to make all needed investigations to ascertain the financial needs of all State departments and institutions, and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all documents it desires. It will prepare the budget and submit it to the Governor in advance of each session of the Legislature. The Governor may make any changes he desires before forwarding the budget to the Legislature. That constitutes the full power of the Executive Department of the State in the preparation of a budget, as under the Constitution the Legislature can accept the budget recommendations or reject them. The bill is being passed, however, in the belief that Legislators will be slow to overrule a scientifically prepared budget.

The bill goes as far in the matter of supervision of expenditures after appropriations are made as lawyers in the Legislature think it can go under the Constitution. It prohibits the expenditure of any money for any other purpose than specifically appropriated except with the written approval of the Governor, and provides that no appropriation shall be available for expenditure until the department proposing to make the expenditure shall have submitted an estimate to the Commission and the Commission shall have approved it.

The House by its action in striking out the section requiring institutions to pay all fees into the Treasury for appropriation by the Legislature saved the bill from almost certain defeat in the Senate, where Senators representing districts in which are State educational institutions were organized against it. The Governor several days ago indicated his opinion that the bill should not be permitted to fail when the expedient of removing this section would save it, and the House followed his cue.

It is the general opinion at the Capitol that no valid reason exists for the bill to fail to pass the Senate. The only reason would be an arbitrary insistence upon the acceptance of the Cave-Donnelly bill unchanged. There may be some jockeying around, the Senate may reject the House amendments, and the bill may go to a conference committee, but as its failure to pass would put the responsibility for defeat of budget legislation on the Democrat Senate, there can be little doubt that before adjournment the Senate will accept the bill as the House amended it.

NEW MAID AND JEWELRY WORTH $1050 MISSING

Kansas.

Mrs. Isadore J. Siegfried, 5647A Waterman avenue, advertised for a housemaid and hired "Julia," a woman about 38 years old, with black hair, blue eyes, a foreign accent and purported references from Wichita, Kan., where she claimed to have been employed for two years.

After "Julia" went to work yesterday morning, Mrs. Siegfried went downtown and the nursemaid took the children out for a walk. When they returned, police were told, "Julia" was gone, as were a platinum and diamond brooch, a platinum and diamond ring and other jewelry valued at $1050, and $83.50 cash.

FASCIST NEWSPAPER CRITICIZES POPE PIUS

Condemns Speech in Which He Upheld Right of Church To Educate Young.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, May 17.—The newspaper L'Impero, ultra fascist organ, sharply criticizes the speech of Pope Pius XI Wednesday in which he asserted that education of the young was the responsibility of the church and not of the State and that he had no intention of relinquishing it.

The paper declares the sermon poor in ideas, and says it goes beyond pontifical reasonability in representing God on earth. The preaching was said to be far from expressions worthy of the vicar of Christ.

"We are convinced that the words to the students were pronounced by Pope Ratti (family name of Pope Pius) and not by the head of Christianity," the editorial goes on. "The fascist state does not fail to recognize religion and family in the education of the young, but feels constrained to intervene with the education of fascist younger citizens in order to establish in youth the concept of country with that of church and family."

The editorial also defends fascism from the charge of training for conquest. It was written by Emilio Settimelli. He once was expelled from the fascist party because of his heated defense of his ideas and has fought at least one duel.

Osservatore Romano, used by the Vatican for official announcements in its leading article gives a veiled warning about "illusions" created by the conciliation of church and state. It objects to speaking of Italian Catholics as a group apart from the body of Catholics. It says the conciliation was effected for the whole of Italy "because if it is a good thing for the church, it is the same for state and country."

Regains Book Lost in Battle.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Johannes Meyer, Dortmund, Germany, lost a prayer book more than 19 years ago on the battle field at Epieds, France. Capt. Walter J. Reed, attached to the office of the chief of the Air Corps, while rummaging among his war relics, recently picked up the prayer book which he had found and forgotten. He noted the owner's name on the fly leaf and sent the book to Meyer in Dortmund.

ASKS MAYOR WHY HIS FRIEND GOT THREE CONTRACTS

L. M. Sperry, Electrical Agent, Complains About Letting Bids for City's Light Bulb Supply.

L. M. Sperry, an electrical agent, has made public his correspondence with Mayor Miller in which he complained against the Mayor's action in letting the city contract for incandescent light bulbs for public buildings and street lights for the last three years to the company headed by H. W. Geller, a friend. Geller is president of the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co., and recently was re-elected president of the Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau.

Profit on the Geller contracts has been $15,422 so far, Sperry believes, as he considers Geller to be an agent receiving 10 per cent on the business, which has amounted to $154,222.28, up to May 8. The Mayor, admitting receipt of Sperry's letters, declared he saw nothing wrong in giving the contracts to Geller and would do the same thing again, and he remarked "Sperry doesn't like me." He added that Geller was entitled to consideration as the employer of 600 men in St. Louis.

Why Mayor Made Awards.
George J. Dietz, who retired as supply Commissioner Wednesday, having failed of reappointment by the Mayor because he had supported former Mayor Kiel for the mayoral nomination, explained the light contracts had gone before the Mayor because for the last three years all bids had been identical at each letting. Not desiring to choose among the bidders himself, Dietz related, he submitted the offers to the Mayor each time and the Mayor, calling Geller his friend, directed the award of the contracts to Geller.

City records show that except for the first three vouchers on the first contract, in 1926, which were made out to the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co., all payments have been made to the F. Tiemann Stove and Hardware Co. It appears that the contracts have been assigned to that company.

From Aug. 20, 1926, to Aug. 20, 1927, $16,604.79 was paid for building lights and $1093.01 for street lights. For the year ending Aug. 20, 1928, $17,352.39 was paid for building lights and $1354.52 for street lights. For the part of the present year from Aug. 20, 1928, to May 8, $15,045.73 was paid for building lights and $102,860.93 for street lights, the latter item assuming large proportions because of the growth of the electric street lighting system.

37 Per Cent Off List Price.
The contracts called for bulbs of 150 to 2500 candlepower each, costing from 25 cents to $7 each, list prices. There were about 16 bids for the present contract, each offering the supply at 37 per cent off list prices. The previous two years, when lesser quantities were desired, 25 per cent discount was offered. Dietz said he had heard agents got only 2 per cent commission, not 10 per cent.

Sperry wrote Mayor Miller on Oct. 15, relating he had made several fruitless attempts to see the Mayor following a conversation with him about the last contract, but "it seems you are evading the issue." He added, as a last paragraph: "Myself and others who are taxpayers are anxious to know why you should choose to give this contract to one man three years in succession (also an enormous amount of other business) at a price no better than ours. Perhaps you can explain this satisfactorily and you must admit our right to the explanation."

Two days later the Mayor replied: "In my recent conversation with you I believe I gave you the reason I can do nothing for you on this contract. The contract has already been let and I do not see how I can do anything about it. It is possible I may get Mr. Geller to divide a portion of it with you. I do not believe the last paragraph of your letter was necessary."

Reply to Mayor's Letter.
Oct. 23 Sperry wrote the Mayor: "The necessity of the last paragraph of my letter of Oct. 16 was to convey to you the gravity of the situation wherein from 10 to 20 different firms are requested to bid on this lamp contract year after year, putting up their deposits with the requisite amount of work, terminating in the same result each time. The profit of this year's contract will exceed $10,000. Therefore, the result of your conference with Mr. Geller will determine the degree of fairness to you, as he is under no obligation to me, the transaction being between you and me."

A reminder of this letter was sent the Mayor by Sperry on Nov. 14. The next day the Mayor answered: "It is not a matter between you and me. * * * The only way I can do anything for you is to try to persuade Mr. Geller to allow you to have that portion of the contract which was let last year. In view of your letter of Oct. 23, I have not talked to Mr. Geller."

Sperry notified the Mayor he would be pleased to have the Mayor take up the question with Geller. The latter, however, the correspondence indicates, showed the Mayor that Sperry's own firm had gone out of business and Sperry had made a new connection in the same line. Geller construed this to eliminate Sperry from consideration.

Unable to Aid Sperry.
"Under these circumstances," the Mayor then wrote Sperry on Dec. 8, "I hardly see what more can be done."

Dec. 24, in a parting shot to the Mayor, Sperry declared that Geller's letter had been "an insult to common intelligence," as there was no reason why he could not serve the city at any time.

"I was within my rights as a citizen," Sperry concluded, "to ask for city business on an even and fair basis with others, without any embarrassment to anyone and without any underhanded methods. You say you have done all that is possible. Well, the damage was done when you awarded the contract to Mr. Geller and Mr. Geller doesn't propose to give up anything he already has. Why should he? I wish to express the hope that you live to know the importance of sincerity and square dealing."

EDUCATION BILL REPORTED

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 17.—The Senate Committee on Education yesterday recommended that House Bill No. 70, the large educational revision measure, be passed with 19 Senate amendments.

The amendments put the bill back in the form it was originally introduced before the House committee and House members wrote several sections of new law into it. It is doubtful, however, if it will be passed in the short time which remains.

MILLIONAIRE WHO WED SIX TIMES DIES IN CALIFORNIA

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—The death here of James Clay Dunphy, 62 years old, eccentric millionaire, was disclosed last night. Dunphy was a son of the late William Dunphy, wealthy cattle man of California and Nevada.

Married six times, Dunphy came into special notice when he eloped with "Dodie" Valencia, well-known San Francisco woman, and applied for an annulment six days later. Because of his lavish gifts to women and extravagant habits, Dunphy was, at one time, declared incompetent and placed under guardianship of a sister. Later he was restored to competency.

WRESTLING CONTROL BILL UP TO GOVERNOR

Missouri House Passes Measure Putting Sport Under State Supervision.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, May 17.—Supervision of all wrestling bouts conducted in Missouri is placed in the hands of the Missouri Athletic Commission, subject to the same powers the commission now exercises over boxing, through a bill passed by the House last night, without a negative vote. The bill received 123 votes. The measure now goes to the Governor.
The measure was introduced in the Senate by Senator Davis of Kansas City, Brines of Sedalia and Haynes of Springfield. It amends the boxing law passed in 1927, which created the Missouri Athletic Commission to supervise boxing bouts, by making wrestling subject to all the provisions of the boxing law.
Under this bill the commission has general charge and supervision of all boxing, sparring and wrestling exhibitions in Missouri, and has authority to license organizations desiring to promote boxing and wrestling shows and make regulations for the conducting of these shows.
Under the present law the clubs that may be licensed to conduct boxing bouts are patriotic, benevolent, fraternal or religious organizations which have been in existence at least one year before the time of making application for a license. The amendment bringing wrestling under the commission makes no change in the class of organizations which may be licensed.

BRIST MILL OWNED BY ELIZABETH TON STRIKER BLOWN UP

Trial of 86 for Plot to Murder Starts.

WARRANT SERVED ON ADJUTANT-GENERAL

Charged With Aiding Attempt to Kill by Directing Auto Into Crowd—Driver
Also Accused.

By the Associated Press.
ELIZABETH TON, Tenn., May 17.—Two reports of destruction of property of union strikers were made today, as the trials of 86 strikers from the American Glanzstoff and American Bemberg mills on charges of conspiracy to commit murder were resumed before two magistrates.

T. C. Wilson brought reports that the first mill of Joe Glindstaff, a member of the United Textile Workers' Union, located on Stoney Creek, had been dynamited about dawn today and that the automobile of another union striker, Sam Hall, a neighbor of Glindstaff's, had been burned.

Adjutant-General Boyd was arrested today on a warrant charging "aiding and abetting an attempt to commit murder," sworn out by Evelyn Heaton, a striking textile worker injured yesterday by an automobile that dashed through a crowd of picketers who blocked the road. He was released on $1000 bond.

A warrant also was issued for Joe Calhoun, driver of the car that struck Miss Heaton, and a deputy left at once for Jonesboro where he was taken yesterday for safekeeping.

Four Persons Hurt by Car. Calhoun was driving the car, loaded with textile workers. Strikers charge the car rushed pickets in the road on the orders of Adjutant-General Boyd. Miss Heaton was seriously hurt and three other workers were treated for injuries.

In swearing out the warrant for the arrest of the Adjutant-General and Calhoun before Magistrate George Ryan, the girl declared a National Guardsman with fixed bayonet set astride the radiator as it plunged through the pickets.

The Adjutant-General said he ordered the way cleared so the car could proceed to the textile plants where the passengers were to begin their work.

The 86 strikers on trial were arrested yesterday following riotous demonstrations on one of the roads used by operatives who have returned to the two big mills.

Approximately 120 strikers were taken into custody and those not charged with conspiracy to commit murder were held on charges of disturbing the peace.

Guardsmen Escort Workers. Workers returning to the mills today were escorted by squads of National Guardsmen acting as special State police. Guardsmen also patrolled the streets.

Adjutant-General Boyd announced this morning that three additional companies of guardsmen, mustering approximately 225 officers and men, would arrive during the day to aid in preserving order.

A cordon of guardsmen surrounded the Courthouse where the trials of the strikers are being held long before the hour for proceedings to be resumed, and permitted no one not bearing proper credentials to enter the building.

Pilot guardsmen in automobiles preceded caravans of from five to 25 buses and taxicabs that went into the outlying communities this morning and brought the workers to the plants. Cars of guardsmen also brought up the rear and in many cases policemen on motor cycles drove with the vehicles bearing the workers.

Water Main Repaired. Hundreds of strikers formed picketing lines along the highways. Elizabeth Tonn was served with its normal water supply today. The water main dynamited about three miles from the town had been repaired.

AWARDS Will be Presented at Bishop Tuttle Memorial.

Girl Scouts of St. Louis will hold their spring court of awards tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Bishop Tuttle Memorial.

More than 800 badges and awards will be presented. Special citations also will be announced.

Mrs. D. K. Rose, chairman of the Standards Committee of the St. Louis Council of Girl Scouts, and Mrs. Louis Burlingham, member of the national board, will present the awards.

Boy Injured; Motorist Held. Gilbert Willis Jr., 6 years old, 2103 O'Fallon street, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ervin Piskorski, 1941 Warren street. The boy was taken to City Hospital. Piskorski was arrested.

EXPEDITION TO EMBALM GORILLAS THEY CATCH

Complete Specimens Will Be Brought Back to U. S. for Anatomical Study.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Four scientists will sail from New York May 23 on the Aquitania for the highlands of tropical Africa, there to kill adult gorillas, embalm them and bring them home complete for anatomical study. The new specimens will give first opportunity for detailed comparison of the gorilla with man.

Columbia University, which will finance the expedition, announced its plans yesterday. The College of Physicians and Surgeons is co-operating with the American Museum of Natural History.

Henry Craven, who has explored in Borneo, Celebes, Africa, Australia and Greenland, will head the expedition. He is associate curator of comparative anatomy at the museum.

With him will go Dr. William K. Gregory, professor of vertebrate paleontology at the university and curator of comparative anatomy at the museum; Dr. J. H. McGregor, professor of zoology at the university and research associate in human anatomy at the museum; and Dr. E. T. Engle, associate professor of anatomy at Columbia.

They also will make special studies and photographs of the feet of the unshod natives who carry their equipment through the thickly wooded highlands north of Lake Tanganyika. Dr. Dudley J. Morton, head of the committee in charge of the expedition, wants the data for his studies of the evolution of human foot and its disorders. The native feet are undeformed by shoes and will be compared with American feet. The expedition will return next January.

NEW PARTY ON WAY TO SEEK SIX MISSING MEN OF ITALIA

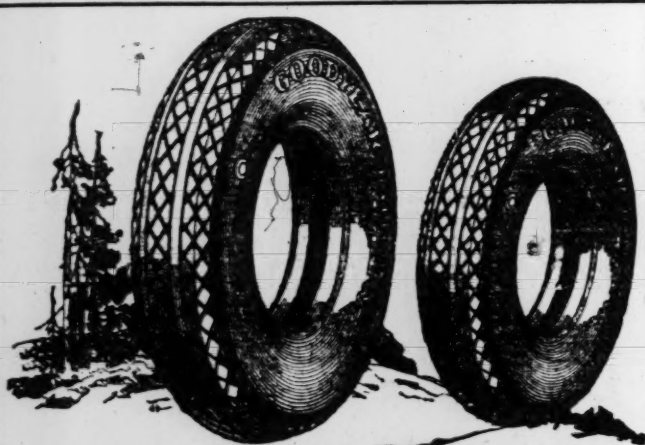

Former Engineer of Lost Dirigible Thinks Some of Crew Are Still Alive.

By the Associated Press.

BERGEN, Norway, May 17.—The whaleboat Holmen is on its way to search for the six members of the dirigible Italia, lost somewhere in the frozen North, and to test there by the stubborn belief of some of their friends that they are still alive.

Almost a year ago, May 26, the Italia, with Gen. Umberto Nobile in command, crashed north of Spitzbergen. The main cabin, containing most of the crew, fell to the ground, but the dirigible itself, with Prof. Aldo Pontremoli, Di Ugo, Lago, Lieut. Ettore Arduino Attileo, Caratti, Renato Alessandri, and Calisto Cioeca within it, sailed on toward the east. Neither it nor the men were seen again.

The Holmen, which left Bergen Wednesday night, is in charge of Giannini Albertini, former engineer on the Italia, who thinks the men are still alive. Even if dead, he thinks, their families and the world are entitled to know what became of them.

MOVE TO ADMIT WOMEN INTO ARMY OF SOVIET

War Commissar Opposed to Innovation—Says They Are Physically Unfit.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publishing Co. (the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

MOSCOW, May 17.—Whether women are to be permitted to enlist for service in the Soviet army is a question discussed in the press.

Women working in factories contend they can endure the hardships connected with military service and many of them are, therefore, demanding the right to enter the service.

While this demand is now being studied by a military committee, it is known that War Commissar Voroshiloff is opposed to it, maintaining that although women participated in the Russian civil war, they are not equal to the physical strain and discipline which military service imposes.

"There are some activities in the army for which women can be utilized," the War Commissar said. "It is not, however, advisable to make it a general rule that women may enter military service on the same basis as men."

Voroshiloff's attitude when two delegations appeared before him urging that the right of women to enlist in the Soviet army be passed into law was that no such step could be taken at present. At the same time he assured his callers that the Soviet is now considering this question. He said the problem would be solved in the most practical way when every side of it has been considered carefully and in detail—which means not soon.

TWO SHOTS FIRED BY BANKER IN STREET CHASE OF SUSPECT

He Thought Man He Pursued Was Swindler Against Whom Warning Had Been Sent Out.

Downtown pedestrians were startled soon after 11 o'clock yesterday morning by a two-block chase which ended at Thirteenth and St. Charles streets during which two shots were fired by William Sewell Jr., assistant cashier of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co., Fifteenth and Locust streets.

Sewell was accompanying to Police Headquarters a man who recently opened an account at the bank whom he suspected of being a swindler, concerning whom the American Bankers' Association recently issued a warning.

Near Thirteenth and Locust streets the man wheeled suddenly, struck Sewell in the face and fled east. Sewell pursued, firing two shots in the air. The fugitive turned north on Thirteenth street and was halted at St. Charles by two detectives. At Police Headquarters the man detained admitted having bank accounts in several banks under different names. He did so to keep his money from his wife, he explained. The American Bankers' Association warning mentioned that it was the practice of the man against whom they gave warning to open accounts under different names and juggle them so as to obtain more money than he had put in.

DRY CHIEF IN CITY

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
DR. JAMES M. DORAN.

EXTRACT MAKERS HEAR FEDERAL DRY CHIEF

Dr. Doran Thanks Industry for Checking 'Illegal Diversion of Alcohol.

Diversion of alcohol from legiti-mate commercial use has become virtually an obsolete factor in the flavoring extract industry today, Dr. James M. Doran, Federal prohibition commissioner, said yesterday in an address before the Flavor Extract Manufacturers' Association of the United States which closes its annual convention today at the Hotel Chase.

"The industry is freer today from undesirable elements than ever before," Doran said.

The Federal bureau of prohibition will co-operate with the flavor extract industry in every way, he said, asking only that negotiations be conducted with "an open mind, a fair spirit and confidence in each other."

Speaking of general social and economic conditions, he said:
"Things are going right ahead in this country despite the howls of some people."

Dr. Doran conferred with Sam S.
Haley, prohibition administrator

Working on Defective Engine, Forged Order to Take Siding.

He Testifies.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 17.—G. V. Alexander, engineer of a Canadian National train which on March 20 collided with another causing the death of 17 persons, was acquitted yesterday by a jury of a manslaughter charge.

Alexander had testified that he "forgot" an order to drive his train onto a siding. He told the court he was struggling to repair a defective engine at the time and the order "slipped his mind." The collision occurred past the siding on which Alexander's train was to have waited.

NEW COUNTY WATER SUPPLY IS SOUGHT

Average Daily Consumption Nearly Taxes Capacity of System Now.

An enlarged source of supply soon must be obtained by the St. Louis County Water Co., which delivers water to the greater part of the thickly populated sections of the county. Means of enlarging the supply are being considered by the utility with the intention of taking action, said W. H. Henby, its president.

Average daily consumption of the customers is between 10,000,000 and 11,000,000 gallons, Henby related, and 15,000,000 gallons is the output capacity, except for a period of a few hours of a possible excess. In a long dry spell capacity is reached by the demand, and the company expects that continued growth of the county at the present rate will increase the demand greatly.

The company's pumping plant is at Howard's Bend on the Missouri River, a short distance downstream from the large new St. Louis waterworks. Representatives of the company met the city Board of Estimate and Apportionment recently, Mayor Miller said, to discuss purchase of water from the city plant. The Mayor told a Post-Dispatch reporter he did not think St. Louisans would approve the sale, adding: "We do not deem it advisable to sell city water which St. Louis taxpayers pay for, to a private concern which would resell it at a profit to itself."

An application of the company two years ago to buy water from the city plant was disapproved by the Department of Public Utilities as a strain upon facilities. Henby said today that it might prove mutually beneficial if the city would sell the company water, with a pair profit for the city. If the city should annex the county, he continued, the city would have to take over the company's system, and the cost to the city of that step would not be so great if the company is not forced to spend money for its own new plant.

A committee of the County Chamber of Commerce recently made a preliminary inquiry into the possibility of purchase of the company by the county. Points in its report were: The company was not antagonistic to the idea; an offer of $6,200,000 for purchase of the system was refused two years ago, about $1,500,000 has been invested in the plant since then and further expenditures of $500,000 to more than $1,000,000 a year will be required in the next 10 years; the company pays a large tax, which would be lost to the county through public ownership; bond issues would be necessary to finance extensions of the system; there is no law authorizing the county to make the purchase.

Plant Shrubs Along Highway. LOUISIANA, Mo., May 17.—Planting of 10,000 spire shrubs, a gift to the State Highway Department by the Stark Brothers Orchard and Nurseries Co., was begun here Wednesday by F. W. Sawyers of the maintenance department, Jefferson City, and 15 workmen. The plants will be set out along U. S. No. 24 in groups from 100 to 300 feet apart. It is estimated there will be a sufficient number to plant 20 miles of the highway.

ROYAL WEDDING IS OFF, CHURCHES CAN'T AGREE

Neither Bulgarian Synod Nor the Vatican Will Waive Rule on Rearing Children.

By The Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 17.—From a high authority came the statement today that rules of the Bulgarian national church and the Roman Catholic church had prevented the marriage of King Boris and Princess Giovanna of Italy. But for the attitude of the Vatican and impossibility of action by the Bulgarian church, it was said, the betrothal would have been announced in the course of the Bulgarian national celebrations Wednesday.

King Boris and King Victor Emmanuel's 22-year-old daughter felt a genuine affection for each other and desired very much to be married. Boris' maternal aunt, the Duchess Helen, who is Giovanna's paternal aunt, first suggested the marriage, which was approved by Giovanna's father, Premier Mussolini, and the Bulgarian Government.

Their ardent sponsorship of the match, which for a time seemed on the point of formal announcement, fell before church differences on which neither the Vatican nor the Holy Synod felt disposed to yield. The principal difference of the two churches was that each insisted that children of the union be brought up in that church.

The Archbishop Stephan, head of the Bulgarian national church, has only recently returned from Rome where he tried to influence the Holy See to modify its rules to permit the marriage of Boris and Giovanna. He said the Pope had power to grant dispensations of this nature whereas the rule of the Bulgarian church was modifiable only by unanimous agreement of an ecumenical council comprising the churches of Russia, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, Bulgaria and Albania under the patriarch Basil of Constantinople, and the consent of the patriarchs of Alexandria, Jerusalem, and Antioch.

Killed in Fall From Auto. BENTON, Ill., May 17.—Walter Olinski, 43 years old, a miner, was killed yesterday when he fell off the running board of an automobile, fracturing his skull on the pavement.

THIS is, without doubt, our greatest Radio value of the year. This statement is made in spite of our record-breaking, value-giving sales of previous months! Note what you buy in this event! Radiola 41 is a combination of the well-known RCA tuned radio frequency circuit and the new RCA electro-dynamic loud speaker encased in a handsome walnut-finished cabinet. The ease of operation, excellent performance, sturdy construction, pleasing appearance and low price of this model make it one which has no equal in its particular class.

Here Are the Details

A radio circuit, which is extremely sensitive, selective, and capable of producing a great undistorted volume of tone, employs four UX-226 Radiotrons as the first audio and radio frequency amplifiers; one Radiotron UY-227 as a detector, and one power Radiotron UX-210 as the second audio frequency amplifier.

The entirely new RCA Electro-Dynamic Loud Speaker with which Radiola 41 is equipped reproduces speech, vocal and instrumental music with remarkable fidelity.

The doors of the cabinet—which is artistically decorated with carved moldings—are hinged so that they may be turned back flush with the sides of the receiver, thus making it equally attractive when open or closed.

IN SONORA REPORTED

Federal Troops Rushed to El Tigre—Several Guards Said to Have Been Killed

By the Associated Press.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, May 17.—A force of 200 Mexican Federal soldiers, garrisoned here, was rushed southward last night in response to a report from El Tigre, Sonora, mining town, that "rebel forces" had sallied from the hills, attacked the town and killed several Mexican guards.

The "rebel force" was thought here to be a remnant of the revolutionary army which, recently routed by Federals, retreated to the mountains with the announced intention of continuing the warfare by guerrilla methods.

Rogelio Loreto, former Mayor of this border town and a rebel leader, who surrendered to the Federals upon collapse of the movement, has been arrested on orders from Mexico City. Local officials said Loreto would be taken to Hermosillo, capital of Sonora.

EXPERTS RETURN TO OLD DIVISION OF REPARATIONS

Decide to Base Negotiations on Spa Percentages After Britain Opposes Young Plan.

By ARNO BOSCH ELEKOT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, May 17.—How to divide German reparations annuities among the Reich's creditors was discussed for the better part of four hours yesterday afternoon by the allied delegates on the committee of experts which for more than three months has been seeking a solution of the knotty financial problem bequeathed by the World War.

Germany's creditors met at 3 o'clock to go over the final report drawn up by Sir Josiah Stamp, head of the British delegation, in which have been embodied the German conditions for acceptance of the schedule of annuities suggested by Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee. Discussion of these conditions was the avowed purpose for which the delegates met; but they talked, in fact, until 7 o'clock largely about distribution of Germany's payments.

They came to only one conclusion—that they might not find it possible to agree on a reduction for reparation but would make every effort to do so before they gave up the attempt. Young, like all the other American delegates present, exhorted them to make a clean job of the settlement; but he was unable to say that America would join in a general cut.

To get out of the impasse caused by British objections to Young's annuity plan giving Great Britain not even a sliver of the unconditional portion of the annuities, it has been decided to return to the basis of the Spa percentages and try again with those percentages as a starting point.

Under the Spa agreement France received 52 per cent of reparations, England 22 per cent, Italy 10 per cent, Belgium 8 per cent, and the remaining 8 per cent was divided among Germany's smaller creditors.

Britain to Take Back 2 Pct.
This means that Great Britain will take back 2 per cent of her share under the Spa agreement, which Sir Josiah Stamp, head of the British delegation, said he would do in the next division will try to keep enough to meet payments to the Dominions.

The deficit Italy will thus face in meeting her war debts will be met, according to the allied plan, by Germany's increasing the capital invested in the international bank, which would earn enough to cover Italy's deficit. How this will go down with the Germans remains to be seen. The American 2 1/2 per cent, Italy 10 per cent, Belgium 8 per cent, and the remaining 8 per cent was divided among Germany's smaller creditors.

A significant feature of yesterday's discussions was that all the experts seemed to take it for granted they would have to accept the compromise settlement of Germany's total indebtedness suggested by Young. They insisted, however, that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's principal spokesman, increase the unconditional portion of the German payments by nearly $24,000,000 annually.

As the annuities have not yet been written into the report, the places for figures having been left blank, Dr. Schacht showed some weakening overnight and from $178,650,000 unconditional payments for the first year—against which bonds could be sold and fresh money realized—he descended in unofficial discussions to $154,820,000. It is thought, however, that he is using this point for negotiating purposes and that if the creditor powers are willing to admit all his conditions he will meet their demands in this respect.

No Violent Objections.
Germany's conditions as drafted by Sir Josiah Stamp after consultations with Dr. Schacht did not bring forth any violent objections as they were interpreted to be rather in the nature of safeguard clauses than an attempt by Germany at future revision of her indebtedness. The conditions were not discussed in detail as each delegation wanted longer to ponder over them; but it is possible that in the end Dr. Schacht will get most of what he wants included in the report with the exception of cancellation of the $3,811,000,000 bonds on German railroads and industries held by the agent-general for reparations payments as security for Dawes plan loans.

There is no way to cancel this lien, as it is part of the contract under which a loan of $500,000,000 was floated to put the Reichsbank on its feet. The lien might be administered in such a way, however, as to give Germany greater liberty in developing her railroads.

S. O. OF NEW JERSEY EARNED $4.43 IN 1928

Consolidated Income of $108,485,686 Compares With $40,422,758 in 1927.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the largest of the oil companies, in its annual report for 1928, showed consolidated income of $108,485,686, compared with $40,422,758 in 1927. The earnings are equivalent to $4.43 a share on the 24,454,219 capital shares of $25 par value outstanding at the end of the year. In 1927 earnings were $1.52 a share.

The report, which covers the first complete year in which the company operated as a holding company, with the actual operations carried on by subsidiary companies, indicates that the company participated in the general recovery from the oil depression of 1927. Last year's earnings were greater than those of 1926 when the company earned $117,452,201, and in 1925 when the company earned $117,652,201, and in 1924 when the earnings amounted to $111,233,355.

In his report, W. C. Teague, president, pointed out that the increased earnings were due largely to the fact that the oil industry has abandoned the policy of alternating periods of overproduction and deficiency, and the adoption of new and more scientific methods of production and refining.

Speaking of the future, he said there were "many obstacles in the path toward orderly exploitation." He referred to the "present form of lease, which compels an operator to drill regardless of the market for the product," and said that it is hoped that a new form will be adopted which will be more beneficial to all concerned.

One of the benefits of the new policy of balancing the production to conform to economic requirements, Mr. Teague pointed out, was shown in the fact that last year there was an overproduction of less than 25,000,000 barrels, whereas in 1927 there was an overproduction of 69,000,000 barrels.

Gross crude production of the concerns subsidiary and affiliated companies in 1928 was 84,775,238 barrels, 42,773,671 of which were produced in the United States and the balance in foreign fields.

BEST AUTO ROUTE TO DERBY GOES THROUGH SHOALS, IND.

Two Inches of Water on Highway There, But Traffic Is Reported Going Ahead.

The Automobile Club of Missouri yesterday announced the best route for motorists to follow to the Kentucky Derby would be No. 50 from St. Louis to Shoals, Ind., and No. 150 from Shoals to Louisville. The highway is under two inches of water at Shoals, the club said, but traffic is going through without difficulty.

Several hundred St. Louisans will drive to Louisville. Three railroads, running special trains, expect 750 passengers from St. Louis.

 Former Missourian Alleged to Have

 Earle, Ark.
 Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 EARLE, Ark., May 17.—James F. Partridge, 32 years old, formerly of Springfield, Mo., bookkeeper and cashier for the Arkansas Lumber Co. here, is sought on charges of embezzling $7000 from the firm during the past year.
 Officers said he came here about a year ago, married the daughter of a prominent family and became active in civic affairs. He was scoutmaster of a recently organized troop of B. Scouts. The thefts are alleged to have been made at intervals during the year.

 Partridge was bonded for $10,000,
 so the company will not suffer loss,
 officials said.

Committee of Three Meets at Columbia, Reads Tes- timony Taken in Cura- tors' Investigation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 COLUMBIA, Mo., May 17.—
 Inquiry by a committee of the American Association of University Professors into the summary dismissal from the faculty of the University of Missouri of Dr. Harman O. de Graff, sociologist, and the suspension for one year without pay of Dr. Max Meyer, psychologist, after they had become involved in the recent sex questionnaire here, began late this morning. The three committee members conducting the investigation are A. J. Carlson, University of Chicago; Percy Bordwell, University of Iowa, and L. L. Thurston, University of Chicago.

Following a preliminary conference with Dr. James H. Rogers, acting head of the local branch of the professional society in the absence of the president, Dr. Herman Schlundt, the committee convened for the reading of testimony obtained at the two sessions of the curators during their investigation.
 Transcripts of both sessions were placed at the disposal of the committee by President Stratton D.
 Brooks.

Dr. Brooks, after directly welcoming the members of the committee, pointed out to them that the university officers were anxious to co-operate and assist in every way in bringing to a satisfactory conclusion the committee's task.

A co-operative committee of the Board of Curators was appointed by James E. Goodrich of Kansas City, president of the Board, to be present during the inquiry. Although Goodrich appointed a committee of six and urged all members to be present, only two, H.
 J. Blanton of Paris and George C.
 Wilson of St. Louis were here at noon today.

Carlson, the chairman of the investigating committee said after his arrival here last night that no reports of the committees finding would be given out at this time. He said also that the committee was not authorized to speak for publication. The committee, he intimated, will remain in session until its task has been completed, which in his opinion may be several days.

Leland Hazard, Kansas City lawyer, who acted as defense attorney for Dr. Meyer, Dr. DeGraff and O. H. Mowrer during the hearings before the full board of Curators was here today at the request of the professional committee.

"I came as an alumnus of the university and as a citizen of the State," he said. "I do not represent any one now, since this investigation unlike the investigation of the board meeting, does not require the services of an attorney."

YOUTHS TELL OF BEING BEATEN
FOR AIDING RADICALS' WORK
 Three Waukegan (Ill.) Boys Seized Near High School by R. O.
 T. C. Members.

By the Associated Press.
 WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 17.—
 Three Waukegan youths reported today they were severely beaten,
 by members of the Waukegan High School R. O. T. C. Reserve Officers' Training Corps, last night because they were distributing literature of the Young Workers' League at the high school.

The youths are Philip Boyer, 29 years old, a graduate of the high school; Hugo Kronholm, 18, and Edward Dombrowski, 19. Boyer said he was kidnapped, taken seven miles from the city in an automobile and beaten. The other two were attacked near the high school, they said.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps members were said to have seized the three boys while they were passing out handbills bearing the caption "Soviet Russia Is an Inspiration to Workers Everywhere." They were taken before Sgt. John Holly, United States Army instructor. Holly, the boys said, told them he would count five before turning
 the Reserve Officers' Training Corps troop loose upon them. They fled but were quickly overtaken.

Holly has not denied the report, and the youths have filed no police charges. He declared the youths told him they had been hired by Louis Cantello, Young Workers' League representative.

WOOD RIVER TO HAVE BIGGEST OIL REFINERY

Petroleum Conversion and Shell Companies to Use New and Safer Process.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Fred B. Lloyd, president of the Petroleum Conversion Corporation, announced last night that the Shell Petroleum Corporation of London had joined with a group of New York financiers in a program to erect in this country the largest oil-cracking unit ever constructed by the industry.

The projected plant will be situated at Wood River, near St. Louis, the announcement says, and is designed to revolutionize present methods of manufacturing gasoline. It will have a capacity of 420,000 gallons of oil daily. Other similar refining units are planned in this and other countries, including one at Wilmington, Cal.

Lloyd told officers and directors of the Petroleum Conversion Corporation that under the old high-pressure or liquid phase method, explosions had been costly in life and equipment. The new methods, reducing the pressure from 700 pounds a square inch to about 50 pounds, would eliminate plant hazards, he said.

Lloyd said designers of automobile engines may prepare to make high-compression motors without fear that the proper fuel would not be available, because the gasoline produced by the new method would be equal in quality to so-called premium motor fuels.

At the general offices of the Shell Petroleum Corporation in St. Louis it was said officially today that no comment could be made at this time on the announcement of a projected oil-cracking unit at Wood River. The report was not denied and it was indicated that "something was in the air." The company operates a large refinery at Roxana, Ill., immediately adjacent to Wood River.

WHOLESALE PRICES DECLINED SLIGHTLY DURING APRIL

Index Number Down Three-Fourths of One Per Cent in Month.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—A small decline in the level of wholesale prices in April compared with the previous month was announced yesterday by the Labor Department.

Using 1926 as 100, the index number for April was given as 94.8, compared with 97.5 for March, a decrease of approximately three-fourths of one per cent. The index number for April, 1928, was 97.4.

Farm products averaged two per cent lower than in March due, the announcement said, to pronounced price decreases for all grains, cotton, eggs and wool. Beef cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs were higher in March.

AL SINGER TO MEET FERNANDEZ TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 17.—Al Singer, young East Side junior lightweight, meets Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines, in the head-line attraction at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Singer, regarded in some quarters as the coming champion of the 125-pounders, rates a 2 to 1 favorite to beat the Filipino. The experts believe the East side boy is too speedy and punched too fast for Fernandez. The bout is a 10-round affair.

Gorilla Jones, Akron Negro, who is rapidly developing into a possible front-rank contender for the welterweight championship, meets Izzy Grove of New York in the 10-round semifinal.

To Play for 1000 Guineas

Joe Turnesa, the Italian-American golfer, today went into the finals for the big prize in British golf-play, the Yorkshire 1000 Guineas tournament. Tomorrow Turnesa will play H. C. Jolly, the British professional. An English guinea is 21 shillings and the 1000 guineas prize is therefore worth approximately $5,100.

MISS WETHERED DEFEATS MISS COLLETT TO WIN BRITISH GOLF TITLE

AMERICAN STAR, 5 UP AFTER FIRST NINE HOLES, FAILS TO HOLD ADVANTAGE IN MATCH

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 16.—Miss Joyce Wethered won the women's British golf championship for the fourth time today, defeating Miss Glenna Collett, in the 36-hole final. Miss Wethered was 5 down after the first nine, had decreased this to 2 for the first 18 and on the first nine this afternoon, was 4 up on her American opponent. Miss Collett rallied on the last nine, but was unable to overcome her rival's advantage.

The British girl's margin of victory was three up, and one to play, the match ending when Miss Wethered won the thirty-fifth hole. The American girl started home with a pair of threes, reducing her opponent's margin from four up to two up, but she was not able to reduce it more during the final eight holes.

Miss Collett played marvelous golf on the first nine, running up a lead of five up at the turn. As usual, however, Miss Wethered, who thrice had won the British title, played at her best in the crisis and recovered three holes to go to lunch only two down.

The American champion played the first nine holes in 34 strokes, two under even four. Her card for the outward trip showed nothing but fours except for the short eighth, where she had a two. Miss Wethered, on the other, was missing putts at nearly every hole and needed 37 strokes for the first nine holes.

Coming home there was a different story to tell. The tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes were halved but Miss Wethered won the fourteenth with a five to Miss Collett's six. The fifteenth was halved, and then the English girl came back to win the sixteenth with a four to Glenna's five. Another halved hole and Miss Collett reduced the American's lead still another stroke with a four at the eighteenth.

The twentieth and twenty-first holes were almost dead level with Miss Wethered's a few feet further toward the hole. Both pitched over Swilken burn. Miss Collett's 20-footer over the rolling green was badly off line. Miss Wethered sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie three to win the hole and reduce the American's lead to one up.

The twentieth was halved and Miss Wethered squared the match at the twenty-first where her second was 25 feet from the cup while Miss Collett was 60 feet beyond the pin. Glenna putted eight feet past while Joyce sent her ball dead. The British girl got her four while the American took five.

Miss Wethered took the lead for the first time in the match at the twenty-second when she won the hole with a four. Miss Collett was a foot short of the green when she won the hole with a five. The British girl dropped her putt from eight feet to win. Miss Collett's approach putt was short.

Miss Collett Squares Match.
A birdie four by Miss Collett at the 350-yard twenty-third squared the match again. The American's drive barely escaped a bunker to the right of the fairway while the British ball was 20 yards nearer the green which she reached with a slashing brassie. Glenna had to pitch from beyond the gully in front of the world's largest green. Her pitch was hole high to the left and after Miss Wethered putted to within 15 feet of the cup the visitor dropped her putt for the birdie four. Miss Wethered missed and the match was square.

Miss Wethered again went on up at the twenty-fourth when Miss Collett's drive landed in a shallow trap to the left of the fairway. She struck the ball too cleanly in coming out and it hit the face of the bank and barely bounced over the top. Her maulie shot soared straight for the pin and was inside Miss Wethered's second. The British girl putted a yard past the cup and after Miss Collett putted twice she picked up, conceding Miss Wethered a four.

Miss Wethered increased her advantage to two at the twenty-fifth where Miss Collett pulled her drive into a deep bunker on the twelfth fairway. She came out bravely but reached rough and reached the green 12 feet from the pin with a niblick. On in two, Miss Wethered putted to within two feet of the cup. The American barely missed her putt and Miss Wethered holed out her four.

Miss Wethered won three up at the twenty-sixth, a 150-yard hole. Both were on but Miss Collett's approach putt left her five feet away while Miss Wethered was within two feet after her first putt. The Britisher holed her while the American missed, Miss Wethered winning with a par three.

Another Wethered Victory.
Miss Wethered started the last nine four up by winning the twenty-seventh. The British was only a foot ahead of the American and Miss Collett pitched 15 feet short of the cup. Miss Wethered laid hers dead. Glenna's putt stopped two inches short of the hole and she conceded it, becoming four down.

Miss Collett reduced her opponent's advantage to three at the twenty-eighth where Miss Wethered pulled her drive into the heather and had to play the odd. Glenna's second was 12 feet from the cup while the British was 25 feet away. Joyce was four feet short when her putt and Glenna sank her's for a birdie three.

Miss Collett won the twenty-ninth with a par three and was only two down. With the famous Eden Green banked with people, the American played a fine front straight for the pin and it rested 12 feet uphill from the cup. The crowds gasped with disappointment as Miss Wethered's shot half buried itself in a deep bunker. She played it out to the back of the green. She took two putts for a four while the American got her three.

After a half in fours at the thirtieth, a gallery of more than 8000 made play difficult at the thirty-first. As Miss Collett played her second a group of small boys ran across the fairway near the green. She cut it slightly and it dropped behind the crowd. She chipped through the narrow lane of spectators to within five feet of the cup. Miss Wethered was on in two and took two putts to win when Miss Collett missed.

Miss Collett Wins Thirty-second.
Miss Collett won the thirty-second and was again two down. After her drive, Glenna had a full brassie to the green and sliced into crowds at the right. Miss Wethered's second reached "hell" bunker and she took two to get out. She reached the green in five and Miss Collett was on in four. The American finally won the hole with a seven to the British girl's eight.

Miss Wethered was two up and three to play after the thirty-third which was halved in fours. Miss Wethered pushed her tee shot to rough but holed a 25-foot putt to get the half.

The thirty-fourth hole was halved in four. Miss Collett faced the task of winning the two remaining holes to prolong the match.

Preliminaries in Scholastic Track Meet, Tomorrow

The preliminary trials in the midget and junior division of the 1929 annual City High School track and field meet will be held tomorrow morning, beginning at 9 o'clock at the Public Schools Stadium. Because of the Washington interscholastic meet, the seniors will not qualify until next Tuesday afternoon.

Although Cleveland, with 64, has the largest number of athletes entered, Roosevelt is expected to carry off the honors in the senior division, while Soldan should have little trouble in winning the junior class. The midget division winner is doubtful.

Soldan lost a reliable point-getter when Ed Mossotti broke his ankle in the 100-yard race at the Coliseum last winter. The return of Max Librach to the West End track team as a senior makes the older class more formidable. Librach had been declared eligible in state competition by Carl Burris, secretary of the commission, but has been placed in the senior class to avoid protests.

The showings made by several of the local stars in the district carnival has given rise to the prophecy that runners such as Helmiich of Soldan, Jacobs of Cleveland, Broe of Roosevelt and McCarron of Soldan will break existing records. The field stars are Cook and Sommer of Soldan, Strugar of Roosevelt and Blacklock of Cleveland.

The W. C. V. Branch ST team squeezed out a 2 to 1 victory over the Northwestern B. M. nine. Dan Baros starred with a homer and two singles, as did Schuster, who allowed the losers only two hits.

The Walnut Park Orioles in the 20-year-old class seek games for this Sunday on the Walnut Park diamond. Call Raymond O'Brien, EVERGREEN 2462, between 6:30 and 7 p. m.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO HANDLE SIR LIPTON'S LATEST CUP CHALLENGE

NEW YORK, May 17.—A committee was named today by Vice Commodore Winthrop W. Aldrich of the New York Yacht Club to accept or reject the challenge of the Royal Ulster Club on behalf of Sir Thomas J. Lipton for the America's cup. Formal acceptance is expected to be made within a few days.

The famous British sportsman's challenge suggests that the first race of the series take place Sept. 13, 1929, over the Sandy Hook course, which has been the scene of his former unsuccessful efforts to lift the cup from the United States. The challenger to be built by Sir Thomas will be a cutter 77 feet long and like its predecessors, will carry the name of Shamrock V.

STATE FAIR TO OFFER $10,000 AS RACE AWARDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 17.—Twenty-five purses aggregating $10,000 (all races added money), and the addition of a strictly modern 92 box stall speed barn which will enlarge housing facilities about 40 per cent will attract attention of horsemen and track followers all over the nation and the 1929 Missouri State Fair, Aug. 17-24, as a surety of one of the greatest speed programs since 1909, when Dan Patch and Minor Hurler were among the entries in the speed program at the Missouri State Fair.

Since that time, horse racing has had a definite part on the entertainment program at Missouri's official exposition here. Judging from the interest manifested each year, it no doubt will remain as one of the outstanding permanent features of the fair. There are 12 harness and 13 running races on the program, with entries closing July 1.

Your gear case is as important as your crank case

YOU change the oil in your crank case often. New oil means a smoother running car. New oil reduces friction. New oil means a saving in dollars and cents because it reduces wear.

Change the grease in your gear case often; at least every 5000 miles. Because fresh grease is just as necessary as fresh oil. Use Whiz Gear Grease. It does not "thin" in hot weather. It puts a cushion of pure lubricant between your gears. You'll be doing a lot of driving this summer. Don't forget to use this superior grease. ## SHIRES THROUGH WITH WHITE SOX, MANAGER SAYS

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., May 17.—If Manager "Lena" Blackburne's wishes are respected, Art Shires, the belligerent bench playing first baseman, is through with the White Sox.

Reflecting over his fist fight with the Texas youth, in which both received facial decorations, Blackburne said he would never permit Shires to play for him as long as he managed the club.

"I don't know what will be done with him, but as long as I'm here he won't be around," said Blackburne, who is here for a series with the Tigers. "Shires has borne a grudge against me since he was suspended for breaking training rules down in Texas. He was 'blowing off' constantly since then and probably is doing as much now. I can't see how a fellow can get that way. He is just a boy, of course, but I can't put up with it."

Meanwhile, Shires was undecided whether to continue his law studies or to appeal for reinstatement after 10 days' suspension. He and Blackburne engaged in a fist fight in the White Sox clubhouse Wednesday, following an exchange of words on the diamond where Blackburne criticized him for "caring around like a baby" and not taking baseball seriously enough.

$75,000 Colt Is Injured in Workout

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 17.—NEW BROOM, the colt by Whisk Broom II-Payment, for which C. V. B. Cushman paid a new record price of $75,000, has been badly injured in training.

The colt became frightened while working over the training track at Belmont Park, yesterday, unseated the exercise boy who was riding him and crashed through the fence. The colt suffered injuries to his fore legs and shoulder. He was led to the stable quite lame but the exact extent of his injuries has not been learned.

Duquoin's New Coach

DUQUOIN, Ill., May 17.—Ned Foley, star athlete of the Southern Illinois Teachers' College at Carbondale, has been elected director of athletics at the Duquoin Township High School at Duquoin, Ill. Foley has been an outstanding athlete at the Carbondale college for four years and was one of the members of the football eleven, which captured the Little Nineteen Conference championship last year. He is widely known among the colleges which comprise that conference and at Duquoin will be in charge of football, basketball and track.

This morning members of the Women's District Golf Association will hold their second weekly tournament of the season at the St. Clair Country Club with competition in all flights. There will be prizes for low gross score, low net and fewest putts.

Tonight Westwood Country Club members will give the caddies of the club a dinner, which will be the first meeting of the recently organized Caddy Club. The officers of the club will attend.

Your gear case is as important as your crank case

YOU change the oil in your crank case often. New oil means a smoother running car. New oil reduces friction. New oil means a saving in dollars and cents because it reduces wear.

Change the grease in your gear case often; at least every 5000 miles. Because fresh grease is just as necessary as fresh oil. Use Whiz Gear Grease. It does not "thin" in hot weather. It puts a cushion of pure lubricant between your gears. You'll be doing a lot of driving this summer. Don't forget to use this superior grease. Ask your dealer about other Whiz Products for your car which serve and save.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Quit Kidding.

PADDY HARMON of Chicago has offered half a million to Dempsey, if he will return to the ring—a sum which is just $200,000 under the bid supposed to have been made by Jim Corbett for a Dempsey fight at Tijuana race track.

Dempsey recently said he might consider an offer of a million dollars for his end, but no chicken-feed guarantees go with him.

Nor with the public. At this time the chances of drawing a million-dollar house, even with Dempsey as the magnet, are meager. The finances and the fans of the nation are not as easy as in the halcyon days, not is the bait as interesting as formerly.

Dempsey is no longer a champion and he is old and weary. Furthermore, there is no champion to pit against him. The public can no longer be "smoked up" as formerly—it already has been smoke-sucked by ballyhoo, and by long-distance views at $40 the look. The novelty of the thing has worn off and, with the passing of the likelihood that anybody will be knocked over or through the ropes by one of the contenders, it is slowly reduced to a "ho, hum" basis.

It Happened at Miami.

THE value of ballyhoo was reduced at least 50 per cent by the false or misleading stuff written in advance of the Stribling fight by writers who accepted courtesies which placed them under obligation to the promoters. Fans have learned to distrust hand-wagon stories about fighters. And so the way has been made terribly tough for the man who promotes the next $40-a-ringside-seat event.

As to Dempsey, we still feel that he fears the rigors of training and the possible serious results of another fight too much to take a chance. But a million dollars would be enough to make even a hospital patient get into ring togs and take a chance.

But—We doubt the million, or for the matter of that, the $300,000.

Paddy Harmon's bid might be on the square. If the Legislature of Illinois legalizes 15-round bouts, as expected, that fact might rehabilitate the situation and give Harmon a chance to get the money into the stadium.

The Winner—

MILLER HUGGINS doesn't know whether the Yanks will get the flag or not, but he does think the Browns will not. "They haven't the pitching," he says. "When Gray and Crowder have finished, the Browns are through."

"OUTDOOR" DOG SHOW DRAWS MANY ENTRIES

The classes for the dog show that is to be held Saturday at the Coliseum are being nicely filled, officials today reported. Began, pointers and setters are the only breeds eligible to entry as they are outdoor dogs and the show is being sponsored by the Outdoor Life Show.

Harry C. January will judge the pointers and setters, and Gen. W. Wollmuth will judge the other breeds. Entries may be made at 4113 Washington avenue. S. I. Paul is secretary of the show.

Practically all of the candidates for Saturday's classic were given their final "blowouts" Friday morning.

Field Work for Blue Lark Spur. Blue Lark Spur's work was a standard and convinced the experts that the position of favoritism was rightly accorded the Bradley colt. Working in company with Bay Beauty, which will run as the other half of the Bradley entry, the son of Black Servant, went the quarter in :23 1-5, half in :45 3-5 and five-eighths in :1:00 flat. Blue Lark Spur was only breezing at the finish of the short course and his lead was easily handled by some five or six lengths.

Windy City was given his final condition over the same route, the Grabiner colt was timed the quarter in :23 4-5, three-eighths in :45 3-5, half in :47 4-5 and five-eighths in :1:05 1-5. Bay Beauty by some five or six lengths.

Naishapur, Chaffee Earl's hope for Derby honors, dashed off a quarter in :25, three-eighths in :47, half in :49 and up the five-eighths in :1:12 handily.

Clyde Van Dusen Just Gallops. H. P. Gardner's Clyde Van Dusen, second choice in the early betting, was next to show on the track. The gallant little son of Man o' War was set down for five-eighths in :45 1-5, half in :1:00 1-5, three-eighths in :1:05 1-5, half in :1:12 1-5, and the four-fifths in :1:25 1-5 driving. Chicote will carry the colors of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, owner of the Fair Stable.

Kay Spence brought out the Audley Farm's The Choctaw and he dressed three-quarters in 1:19, quarter in :25, three-eighths in :47 1-5, half in :1:05 1-5, and the four-fifths in :1:25 1-5.

Paul Bunyan displayed high speed to step the half in :44 4-5, while Lord Bradalbane went a full mile under wraps in 1:45, the half in :50 2-5 and three-quarters in 1:16 2-5.

The race will be worth approximately $55,000 to the victor in the struggle of speed, stamina and courage over the route of one mile and a quarter.

Millions more are expected to tune in on the thrills of America's most colorful turf classic over a record radio hook-up for the Derby.

Derby day is Kentucky's day of days. Where England has a national institution in its own Derby, and France has its fashionably brilliant Grand Prix at Longchamps, the Blue Grass region has its horse race. No one remaining in the throngs on street corners, in the hotels, everywhere, is allowed to forget it. This year, as seldom before, Louisville has drawn the pilgrimage of the faithful, not only from its own hills and towns, but from far and wide.

350 Athletes To Compete in Washington Meet

More than 29 schools and 350 athletes are expected to participate in the ninth annual Washington University interscholastic meet.

which will be held at Francis Field tomorrow. The preliminaries in all track events and the preliminaries and finals in the shotput, javelin, discus throw and broad jump will be held in the morning, starting at 10 o'clock, while the remainder of the finals will be decided in the afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

Soldan High School, winner in Division 1 last year, is entered again in tomorrow's event, and is conceded an excellent chance to repeat on the basis of the showing in winning the district meet last Saturday. The locals may be hard pressed, however, by Central High School of Tulsa, Ok., which is sending a full team to compete. It will be remembered that the same school captured the recent Washington University interscholastic swimming meet, outscoring their nearest rival by more than 2 to 1.

The Pawhuska (Ok.) High School will be represented by one athlete, Ormand Beach, who will enter the weight events. Beach recently won the shotput in the Oklahoma interscholastic meet. Among the other local entrants in Division 1, which includes schools having enrollments of over 350 pupils, are Beaumont, Roosevelt, Central, University City and West Grove.

In Division 2, Bend (Ind.) School, the 1928 winner, has entered. Three of the entrants in this division are Clinton Fulton and Sullivan, Mo. Western Association, Independence 4, Shawnee 3, Springfield 8, Fort Smith 4, Muskogee 5, Joplin 4.

HARRY S. BOXING BOARD COMPLETE WITH APPOINTMENT OF KANSAS CITYAN

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 17.—Harry S. Davis of Kansas City, today was appointed as a member of the Missouri Athletic Commission by Gov. Henry Caulfield. Davis will take the place of the Rev. Burrus Jenkins. The resignation of the Rev. Jenkins had not been announced prior to the appointment by Gov. Caulfield of Davis' appointment.

Davis, who is 32 years old, is active in American Legion and civic affairs of Kansas City. He is a member of the Kansas City American Legion Boxing Committee, and is secretary of the Main Street Improvement Association. He was a First Lieutenant in the Marines during the war.

The appointment of Davis completes the reorganized State Athletic Commission. Chester Brewer, chairman, of Columbia, Mo., will continue in that capacity. Seneca C. Taylor, of St. Louis, on Wednesday was appointed to the post left vacant by the resignation of Harry Caslen, also of St. Louis. Ben Harrison of Springfield, Mo., is secretary. There has been a persistent rumor here that Harrison will not be reappointed.

No date for the first meeting of the reorganized commission has been set.

STRONG SCHEDULE OF BASKETBALL GAMES FOR JOHNSTON CITY HIGH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOHNSTON CITY, Ill., May 17.—Johnston City Township High School basketball schedule for next year, which was announced today by Larue Vannatter, who has been re-elected coach of the Illinois State State champions for another year, includes probably the strongest array of teams ever to appear on one schedule in Southern Illinois.

Decatur High, one of the strongest teams from the Central part of the State, Mount Carmel, former Illinois State champions, and Central High of Evansville, Ind., will play in this city. Each team of the Egyptian Conference, of which Johnston City is a member, and which includes Anna, Jonesboro, Carterville, Christopher, Hurst, Bush and Eldorado, will play here in Friday night games. Teams outside the conference will play here on Saturday nights.

Decatur High will represent the Big Twelve Conference of the Central part of the State. They will come here for a game and the return game will be played in the Moline College gym at Decatur. Mount Carmel will represent the Wabash Valley Conference and Central High of Evansville will represent Indiana.

Games have been scheduled with West Frankfort, Marion and Herre of the Big Seven Conference of Southern Illinois. Vannatter stated that he had a few more open dates.

150 Golfers to Compete In Qualifying Round of District Tourney Tomorrow

By W. J. McGoogan.
A field of about 150 golfers is scheduled to start in the 18-hole qualifying round of the Fourteenth Annual St. Louis District Golf Tournament at Sunset Hill Country Club tomorrow morning, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Pairings made yesterday show that 135 are entered and additional entries will be received up to starting time. Clarence Wolf, secretary of the District Association, announced.

Jim Manion, Normandy, is the defending champion. He is paired with Elliott Whitbread of North Hills in the qualifying round to start at 2:15 p. m.

The pairings were made up in twosomes and they leave the starting tee at intervals of five minutes.

First Round Monday.
The 32 low qualifiers will compose the championship flight in match play, the first round of which is to be played Monday, the second round Tuesday, third round Wednesday, semifinals Thursday, finals Saturday. All matches will be 18 holes, while the semifinals and finals will be 36 holes.

Two other classes besides the championship will compete, the second 32 qualifiers composing Class A and the third 32 Class B. In connection with the qualifying round there will be an inter-club team match. Four members of all clubs desiring to compete will be nominated and the team making the lowest aggregate score will be the winner.

The winner of the championship flight of the tournament will receive the Ben Morgan trophy, in competition for the first time this year.

Bonner Miller is to be the official starter, with William T. Shrader and John Manion as his assistants.

In addition to the entries of those who are to play, the District Association received about 40 complimentary entries from those who wished to pay the entry fee of $5 to the association to help it, as that organization derives its funds from entry money for the tournament.

Alcohol Exports to U. S. Increased $6000,000 in Two Years, Coast Guard Chief Reports.

DOMINION ASKED TO REJECT SHIPMENTS

Disclosures Made by State Department in Review of Parley for More Drastic Treaty.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Disclosures of liquor-running on a vast increasing scale from Canada to the United States, and of appalling corruption in the customs service as the result of efforts to force prohibition, are contained in official documents made public yesterday by the State Department. The documents embrace the correspondence between the State Department and the Canadian Government on the long-standing request of the United States for a stringent addition to the smuggling treaty of 1924.

Negotiations that began in 1925 came to a head in January of this year, when commissioners of the United States, at a meeting in Ottawa with Canadian Government representatives, were politely but firmly informed that Canada, while willing to make its regulations under the existing treaty more drastic, could not see its way clear to accept a new convention. On this point of disagreement, and with diplomatic protestations of friendship and sympathy on both sides, the conference broke up.

U. S. Demand Outlined.

What the United States wanted, it still wants, is a treaty engagement under which the Canadian Government would refuse clearance to shipments of liquor into this country, by land, water or air. A full account of the Ottawa proceedings is given in a batch of papers released for publication by the State Department. Here are found arguments of the American commissioners for a new convention, buttressed with figures on the flow of liquor from Canada, and also the suave rejoinders of the Canadians, the report of the negotiations makes an interesting and instructive commentary on prohibition, in both its domestic and international aspects.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard of the Coast Guard (the dry navy), the head of the American commission, told the Canadians that the present treaty had proved ineffective against the liquor runners, and in support of his point quoted official Canadian figures on the exports of liquor to the United States.

During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926, the first year after the effective date of the treaty, said Admiral Billard, the total value of whiskey declared for export from Canada to the United States was $12,572,011. During the year ended March 31, 1928, the value was $18,380,070, an increase of about 50 per cent.

No New Proposal.

Admiral Billard freely conceded that the failure to curb smuggling, in no wise, be attributed to neglect on the part of the Canadian officials to do their duty under the treaty. The proposal of a new and more drastic treaty, he continued, was not strange or novel, inasmuch as the United States already had similar treaties with Mexico and Cuba, while other countries had refused, by administrative or legislative action, to grant clearances to vessels seeking to bring liquor into the United States.

"What we want you to do," said Admiral Billard, "is not to enforce our law, but to refuse to allow the instrumentalities of your Government to be used on behalf of persons known to be engaged in efforts to violate our laws."

Another of the American delegates, E. W. Camp, Commissioner of Customs, told from first-hand information about conditions along the border. Camp gave the official statistics of seizures on the Detroit river frontier. During the two fiscal years ended June 30, 1928, the customs authorities in that area seized 624 boats and 364 automobiles and confiscated 45,534 cases of beer, 6644 barrels of beer and 14,560 cases of whiskey. During the following six months alone, the seizures were increased by two-thirds in the first instance; they totaled 117 boats, 46,974 cases of beer, 4576 cases of whiskey and 375 automobiles.

These seizures, it was said, did not constitute more than 10 per cent of the total liquor traffic.

Treaty.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.

Chief Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Disclosures of liquor-running on a vast increasing scale from Canada

the United States, and of approaching corruption in the customs service as the result of efforts to before prohibition, are contained in official documents made public yesterday by the State Department.

The documents embrace the correspondence between the State Department and the Canadian Government on the long-standing request of the United States for a treaty addition to the smuggling city of 1924.

Negotiations that began in 1925 came to a head in January of this year, when commissioners of the United States and Canadian Governments, were politely but firmly informed that Canada, while willing to make its regulations under the existing treaty more drastic, could not see its way clear to adopt a new convention. On this basis of disagreement, which prompted the State Department to make public the documents concerning the liquor trade, the conference broke up.

U. S. Demand Outlined.

What the United States wanted, and what it is, is a treaty engagement under which the Canadian Government would, in return for the elimination of the liquor trade, by land, water or air,

allow a full account of the Ottawa prohibitory law to be given in a batch of papers released for publication by the State Department. Here, says the documents, the Canadian Government, in return for the new treaty, had provided ineffective provisions for the liquor runners, and in support of his point quoted official Canadian figures on the export of liquor to the United States.

No New Proposal.

Admiral Billard freely conceded that the failure to curb smuggling was, in his view, the result of neglect on the part of the Canadian officials to do their duty under the treaty. The proposal of new and more drastic treaty, he continued, was not strange or novel, inasmuch as the United States already had similar treaties with Mexico and Cuba, while other countries had refused, by administrative action, to grant clearance to vessels seeking to bring liquor into the United States.

"What we want you to do," said

Admiral, "is not to enforce our treaty, but to refuse to allow the immunities of your Government to be used on behalf of persons known to be engaged in efforts to violate our laws."

Another of the American delegates, E. W. Camp, Commissioner of Customs, told from first-hand experience about conditions along the border. Camp gave the official statistics of seizures on the Detroit border during the two fiscal years ended June 30, 1928.

The customs authorities in that city seized 634 boats and 264 automobiles and confiscated 45,524 gallons of beer, 6644 barrels of beer and 16,549 cases of whisky. During the following six months alone they seized 117 boats, 46,075 cases of whisky, 478 cases of whisky and 375

automobiles.

These seizures, it was said, did not constitute more than 1 to 10

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times

Co., and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

This story, published exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, is a story of the aurora which appeared in the St. Louis area on May 16, 1929.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica,

Monday, May 13. (By Wireless.)

It is 11 p. m. The lights have all been put out except the night

watchman's lantern here on the desk. It sheds a feeble yellow glow over the stove glowing in the corner, over the long rows of bunk shelves and the deserted chairs.

The partition separating the next room does not reach the ceiling and an occasional creak is heard as an uneasy sleeper turns.

Every half hour on the night

watch, a trip is made outside through the open door into the bunk room, where the chill of the Antarctic begins to nip uncovered noses and cheeks, up through the snow tunnel to the endless night, to watch for the aurora and note which way the wind blows and what clouds are in the sky.

A blast from the southeast which stabs the face drives before it a light drift of snow. How bitter cold it is, a cold which sears like fire. A bit of cloud sweeps by, hurrying past the moon as if in a vain effort to veil its silver light.

Strange Things Happen.

Strange things happen in the moon. The other night it was full and red, like flame, like a burning wheel, and one afternoon it hung, all dripping with elfin rays, over the faint yellow line which marks our lost sun. Straight down from the moon hung a radiant streamer, another pointed upward.

And one full night it was surrounded by a halo, its face swollen and gray, as if it had eaten too many stars and felt badly about it.

It is much more comfortable down below, where a chair can be drawn up to the stove and numb fingers warmed. The wind sings softly in the chimney, a song that rises and falls and speaks of the land it has come out of that mysterious South, where the moon shines on the endless snow fields,

where the only sound is of the surrounding drift and the crackle of snapping ice. What does deep center has it buried over this wind, down

what valleys and up what grim, unknown mountains that thrust their dark obtruding heads through the white that seeks to cover them.

It has whirled about their peaks and torn relentlessly at them and then, driving the snow before it,

it came to whisper down the chimney as it passes. If one only knew the story of the wind!

per cent of the total smuggled in the Detroit River section.

The figures were laid before the Canadian display of the request of Admiral Billard, in order to show that the United States was doing what it could to stop smuggling.

Camp also gave the Canadians a vivid picture of the liquor trade along the border and the spread of corruption in the customs service.

"He stated," says the official summary of his remarks, "that the customs service has traditions —that it has always been proud of its officers. A year ago the duty of patrolling the Detroit frontier was assigned to the customs service. The patrol was augmented and many seizures made. However, certain patrol officers were found not to be faithful to their trust, and there were many dismissals. The patrol was increased to 140 along a short frontier. A picket system with three shifts was established. The customs service was completely broken down and into a place where the temptation was unusually strong.

Situation Extremely Bad.

"Undercover men reported that the situation was bad beyond expression. He (Camp) informed the conference that there is, along the Detroit frontier, a gathering of all the elements that are undesirable. Not only are smuggling and hijacking taking place, but also racketeering and bribery. As this banditry becomes more confident, it endeavors to place a toll not only on legitimate industry but more or less on legitimate industry. He stated that in certain sections clothes pressers, cleaners

Savings Bank Insurance.

PLEASE refer to your article published May 2, titled "Insurance Written by Savings Banks. Successful 21 Years in Massachusetts," and your editorial comment of the 3d, in connection therewith.

I have read these articles with interest and while I agree that the idea has grown, still I do not agree that the idea has been a success.

I do believe that, when Justice Brandeis gave energetic thought to this idea of insurance by savings banks, in 1905, there was great need for someone of some institution to stop the inefficiency of insurance companies which finally caused monetary loss to the poor workingman. And since his idea has caused the powerful insurance companies to decrease insurance rates, his plan had done some good in the first years of its institution. However, since then, there is no doubt that the Legislature of this State and the Voluntary League, have remedied the condition, which originally gave and caused Justice Brandeis so much concern in 1905.

The plan, in my opinion is wrong, because the poor workingman will not save voluntarily; he must be forced to save. The only proper way to make the poor workingman save is to have a salesman call at his home and show him the benefits of life insurance. When he buys insurance he saves. The collector calls weekly and urges him, all possible, to pay up so that lapses will not occur, as the collector, and not the insurance company loses when industrial insurance lapses. Will the savings banks go out and force the poor workingman to save, in order to protect him and family? No!

I am not in any way connected with any insurance company, although I hold policies in several, and this article is written for the sake of argument.

The Trucking Press.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHEN I read such letters (concerning the control of the press by special interests) as the one signed "Reader" in your last Sunday's issue, I shudder, for in it you are revealed as the one great hope of a fast fading light, growing dimmer as the sun of intelligence sinks slowly behind a great mountain of ignorance. The trucking, undercast newspapers that are branded cheap all over are pictured as the one great power of the universe and I am reminded of Achilles who died from a pin scratch because he forgot to cover his heel.

History does not point to one period since the light of intelligence appeared to man, when truth, with justice, was so ably defended as now. It is true the noise of the battle is greater because there are more people engaged and even the most selfish combatant is often the loudest in his defense of truth.

We love to look upon your great newspaper as one of the greatest gifts of this age—a hopeful leader, a fair fighter and fearless because you know that you are right.

No man need complain because he has no weapon with which to fight, and one is denied the right to sacrifice for a principle in which he believes.

Not an Elemenary Institution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I NOTE in your issue of May 14 a letter from H. R. Tucker of Cleveland High School, and appreciate very much his words of commendation concerning this school and other institutions which his sociology class had visited. I regret that Mr. Tucker has classified us with the elemenary and reform institutions of St. Louis and county. The Missouri State School for the Blind is purely a school with modern educational methods, and management for training young people handicapped by lack of vision. It is not in any sense an elemenary or reform institution.

PRESS AND PUBLIC.

Even had the International Paper and Power Co. designed to gag the newspapers in which it invested—and certainly the testimony given before the Federal Trade Commission by William J. Lavarre and Harold Hall that they had been given $2,500,000 to buy newspapers in the South left no other inference—it could only have facilitated without a transformation already going on within.

Mr. S. E. Thomason, who testified this week in the Federal Trade Commission inquiry into the operations of the International, says of the Chicago Journal, which he and the International own, that the power company's investment means no more than it would mean if the money came from a bank. But he nevertheless admitted he did "a foolish and stupid thing" when he omitted mention of the International's interest in his statement to the postoffice last April 1—so that he did not by any means consider them the same thing.

Mr. R. L. O'Brien, formerly editor of the Boston Herald, one of the newspapers in which the International invested, thinks the press is retiring from the field of public opinion. He says the usefulness of the press as a public servant has declined with the development of chain newspapers and the rise of advertising. This change placed them in contact with so many business interests that rather than give offense in quarters profitable to them they shut up. Mr. O'Brien asks: "What is to become of the journals of opinion when newspapers become recognized cogs in the mechanism of business and how shall the populace get along without that service which the old-time newspaper performed?"

How has the populace in much of the country been getting along without it for several years? There are even big cities in the country without a single newspaper hypocritical enough to pretend that it is fighting the battles of the people. Thomas Jefferson and his associates thought an untrammelled press indispensable to free government, and we imagine there is no serious dissent from that today. To answer Mr. O'Brien's inquiry, the populace would do very badly without it. It would no longer know the truth about public affairs. The press would practice social disservice, precisely as most of it did when the oil scandal was exposed. The press cannot remain free and be too apprehensive of the cost of that freedom. Yet there are instances of prosperous newspapers that have never surrendered their intellectual integrity. They are, in our opinion, the answer to the restrictive laws proposed by some of the members of Congress, as they are the answer to what the International has been doing.

The action of Mr. Gannett, who tells the Federal Trade Commission that "I knew we were in a bad mess," immediately the International revelation came out, and who promptly handed back to the Power Trust the $2,781,153.30 it had invested in his newspapers, points the way for the press. Mr. Gannett said he was so worried he could not sleep on the train going from New York to Washington and got off at Philadelphia to telephone Mr. Graustein that a boy was on the way with the money. Excellent!

Even if the law required the press to tell the public the name of every stockholder and reveal how much stock he holds, it would be impracticable to say who can own newspapers. The press itself must answer that question. If the owners of newspapers are content to peddle them as if they were nothing more than business concerns, then the law is powerless to preserve the press as a quasi-public institution. Mr. Gannett flinched from the revelation that his newspapers were associated with the International. Even had there been no exposure of that association, as a newspaper proprietor he should have felt that the attitude of his newspapers would inevitably betray it. They everywhere betray their ownership. They cannot be even half slave without rattling their chains. The country is never in any doubt as to how far they are bound. A newspaper's virtue, like that of a woman, is something more seen than asserted.

Of course, the country is not going to see the press made subservient to the Power Trust or any other trust. To do so would be to deprive itself of its greatest public servant. The Power Trust would naturally like to control the press. The press is the only obstacle remaining between it and the people's purse. But the Power Trust is not the first among us to wish for the moon.

PAINTING THE LILY.

On Saturday of last week the opinion of three Judges of the United States Court of Appeals for this circuit sharply criticizing the Government prosecutor for unfair methods in the prosecutions of Christian J. Beck and Edward J. Barrett was filed.

Monday an experienced prohibition agent made an affidavit before United States Commissioner Atkins that he had "smelled a strong odor of fermenting mass emanating from a two-story brick building at 1433 Kentucky avenue," and obtained a search warrant which, when executed by a "raiding squad" of agents, revealed nothing on the premises but lubricating oil.

And President Hoover is pledged to a more vigorous enforcement of the law.

It is claimed that the new Lindbergh Light on the Palm Olive Building in Chicago will cast an even stronger ray than the sun. Palm Olive enlightening the world, so to speak.

OUR LAWLESS PEACE OFFICERS.

George Trochter, in the course of his employment as truck driver for a St. Louis packing company, made a trip to De Soto, Mo., and pulled up in front of a customer's shop on Main street. J. S. Dover, Chief of Police of De Soto, ordered Trochter to move on. Trochter ignored the order and proceeded to carry into his customer's shop certain packages of meat. He says that when he came out he found Dover at the wheel attempting to drive the truck off, whereupon he pulled Dover out of the seat and took the wheel himself. Thereupon Dover "shot" Trochter in the face with a tear gas gun, blinding him. A friend brought Trochter home where his physician says his sight may be fully restored within three months, meantime he is blind.

Here is a typical case of criminal arrogance among peace-officers—God save the mark—in nearly all of our rural communities in these zealous law-enforcing days. The example has been set for them, of course, by our paternal Federal Government's army of lawless prohibition law-enforcers, who may shoot whom they please and seek the shelter of special courts and claim the aid of Federal prosecutors as their defenders.

Trochter is lucky merely to have been blinded;

Dover might have killed him and gone scot free by alleging that he suspected there was a bottle of beer in the truck; that suffices to vindicate all official violence in most rural communities where the Anti-Saloon League retains its super-control of civil and religious affairs.

Trochter's offense, at most, was a violation of traffic orders, for which he might have been arrested, and, on conviction, fined.

REAPPORTIONMENT.

Nothing better illustrates the futility of a Missouri Legislature than the failure of that body over more than 20 years to redistrict the State. The Constitution says this must be done after each census. It has not been done since 1911.

The reason this mandate is ignored has been obvious in the present session. The Democrats feel they are in a decline. If the State were reapportioned they would be put to tests for public favor which they feel they could not meet. Therefore, their strategy is to stand solidly for the status quo. Neither in the House nor the Senate could a reapportionment bill escape their wrath. They are like the prohibitionists in down-state Illinois. Over there the State cannot be redistricted because reapportionment would deliver it into the hands of the Chicago wets. In Ohio the liquor issue operates in exactly the same way to prevent reapportionment. The yokels hold it with the grimness of death. In Kansas the older eastern half of the State refuses to risk control by giving the increased population in the western half of the State the representation to which it is entitled. Western Kansas may have some new ideas. Thus the struggle for power in most of the states denies one of the foundations of our theory of government.

Missouri is really no worse off in this matter than some of her sisters. Nevertheless, we should be far from happy in our stubborn unconstitutionality. The Constitution provides that if the Legislature fails to redistrict the State this may be done by the Governor, the Secretary of State and the Attorney-General. These officials did undertake reapportionment after the census of 1920. The Missouri Supreme Court held that their authority to do so had been annulled by the adoption of the initiative and referendum.

In our opinion the judgment is unsound. We have not the slightest doubt if Gov. Caulfield will take up the constitutional mandate and act upon it with firmness, the Supreme Court of the State will promptly reverse itself. Reapportionment by the cumbersome process of the initiative is an absurd postulate that will not bear discussion.

THE ROSE DIAMOND.

A rose diamond, the largest found in Brazil, is formally announced. It is ranked only by the blue stone which shines as "The Southern Star," and it was cradled in the same clay that nurtured that gorgeous burst of flame.

The rose is now in a goldsmith's custody, undergoing the pruning and polishing process. For the most part diamonds (what a thesis could be written on that!) is in the beginning a "diamond in the rough." But it is with the destiny, not the origin, of the rose that we are concerned.

On a yesterday whose twilight, historically speaking, still lingers in the skies, the story could easily be charted. Royalty would have crooked an imperial finger and the rose would bluish unseen by the proletariat in the crown jewels. A Dubarry or a Pompadour, perhaps, had started a flutter of Versailles gossip by flashing the bauble she had wheedled out of a pliant Louis. Or if this flower had bloomed, say, when the fathers were shaping our Constitution on the anvil of Philadelphia debate, Catherine of Russia would have illuminated her pudgy thumb with this splendor.

A fig for all the yesterdays. This is today. And the rose of Brazil has its predestined finish, namely, the corsage of Peggy Joyce.

THEY GET STARTED EARLY IN MISSOURI.

Charles "Rusty" Nichols, only 17 years of age, is pitching for one of those minor league farms with which John J. McGraw charges that the St. Louis Cardinals have revolutionized baseball.

McGraw says the Cardinals really have 250 ball players, and that they place in the field against their opponents whatever 10 or 12 of them are going best at the moment. He thinks this is the way the Cardinals won the National League pennant last year. It presents a great farm problem to the other teams in the National League. For instance, the Giants, now in seventh place, are just as aggrieved in athletic eclipse as are the farmers of the wheat and corn belt in economic eclipse. The Cardinals are to the Giants what the tariff barons are to Iowa and the Dakotas.

One of our farm boys, Charles comes from Dexter, Mo. Recently he blanked Meridian, a Cotton States League team, 2 to 0, with four hits. Charles scored both his team's runs. He is a southpaw.

They get started early in Missouri.

MR. AGG'S FIGURES.

We quote the following from the May 6 issue of Transit News:

The Post-Dispatch quarrels with the street car sign: "Use a mile by auto; Se a ride by street car."

It nears in Iowa a man named Agg, who declares that an automobile can be run for 60 miles, half him as a "good Agg" and another him champion of the automobile drivers.

Had the Post-Dispatch investigation in Iowa been as searching as it likes to have people believe its investigations are, it would have discovered there Bulletin No. 69 of the Iowa State College, adopted and published by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce as the most accurate compilation of automobile costs yet made. The investigation showed that the average cost of operation for 11 typical cars in the medium price range was 10.27 cents a mile.

It just happens that T. R. Agg, the authority quoted by the Post-Dispatch, is also the author (in collaboration with Harold S. Carter, research expert) of Bulletin No. 69, to which the Transit News refers. That bulletin was published in July, 1924. Four years later Mr. Agg and Mr. Carter made another study of automobile costs, published as Bulletin No. 91 of the Iowa State College, in which they showed that automobile costs had dropped from 10.27 a mile to 6.43. The cheapened costs are due to increased car mileage and better roads. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which in 1924 adopted Bulletin No. 69, has now adopted Bulletin No. 91 to take its place. It was on the later figures that the Post-Dispatch based its editorial.

The Transit News is using figures that are five years old and obsolete.

Brazil's Coffee Problem

Just as Great Britain failed in its attempt to restrict rubber production and thus control world rubber prices, Brazil has failed in a similar attempt to regulate coffee prices; restriction in the rich coffee-producing region of Sao Paulo leads to increased production elsewhere; like our wheat and cotton growers, Brazil's coffee-planters have placed too much dependence upon one crop.

ON Oct. 12, 1927, the city of Sao Paulo celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of the introduction of coffee into Brazil with a remarkable exposition in the imposing Palace of Industry. The first plants were brought from Cayenne in 1757 by Captain-General Da Gama and planted in Para. They had come originally from Abyssinia. Coffee gradually shifted to the South, where it is now grown almost exclusively in four states. During the last hundred years the development of coffee cultivation in the State of Sao Paulo, which furnishes half of the world's crop, has been responsible for that State's amazing growth in wealth and population. Sao Paulo pays 50 per cent of Brazil's taxes, and in 1924 coffee accounted for three-fourths of the value of Brazil's exports. When we consider that much coffee is grown also in three other states, we can realize what this one product means to Brazil.

Prof. Clarence F. Jones, in his recently published "Commerce of South America," says that the conditions for gigantic cultivation of coffee on the high table-lands of Sao Paulo, 3000 feet above the sea, are ideal. The soil has a high iron and potash content; the rainfall is good in summer when the growing plants need water. The rolling country keeps the ground dry, and wind and the absence of fog and frost avoid the dampness harmful to the trees. In autumn and winter there is constant sun during the harvest and the drying. Planting and tending and harvesting coffee is a white man's job. This fact, combined with the excellent climate, has brought to Sao Paulo colonists from Europe in sufficient numbers to develop this great source of wealth uninterruptedly.

About 60 years ago immense fazendas of coffee began to spread over the plateau. Immigrant laborers were supplemented by colonists, who were given five-year leases during which they cleared and planted the land. They grew their own vegetable and cereal crops. At the expiration of the leases the land had to go back to the owner, and the colonist's remuneration was in a stipulated price per stem for the trees he had planted. With this incentive coffee production was stimulated, and the increase demanded little or no capital from the owner of the land. When the fazendas had reached the productivity of over a billion and a half pounds per annum at the end of the nineteenth century, they began to get ahead of the world's coffee drinkers. But production increased all the same, doubling in the 10-year period from 1898 to 1908.

In the latter years of this decade millions of sacks were left over, and by the end of 1908 there were nearly 12,000,000 sacks more than the world could use. With the fazendas facing ruin from decreasing prices, the Brazilian Government bought 8,500,000 sacks in the market and held them in warehouses. The steady increase in the use of coffee and the cutting down of production enabled the Brazilian Government to get out of this transaction without loss. But Brazil had trouble with

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY.

TO a reportorial veteran of the Washington arms conference—and he is that—comes a fascinating announcement. That announcement is that President Hoover the American generalissimo is preparing to submit plans for a new stick for measuring the relative power of naval ships.

That was what Secretary Hughes sought to do in preparing for the Washington naval conference. The naval experts of that day failed utterly to evolve anything but the nage by categories plan and the nations as to maximum size of both and guns in each combat class.

And Washington still feels that the most simple and effective method follow. It is the basis of the Washington limitations treaty.

Only a resolve by Mr. Hoover that administration will be conducted in the letter and spirit of the treaty, and that the navy will justify experimenting with new and tried arithmetical or algebraical methods of naval rivalry.

IT was natural that Hoover's ingenuity should be given credit for finding a technical solution of the problem navy brains failed so utterly in 1921.

Just what the President personally tributed in that way it would be hard to discover.

In any event, when the scheme is made public, it will be termed the "Hoover Formula," since his responsibility to accept it.

British Asia led to an increase in the put of plantations other than British, stimulated countries suffering from monopoly to develop their own supply.

A study of the coffee difficulties in Brazil would be a useful pursuit to countries or regions of a country that too much dependence upon one crop, especially our wheat and cotton states of the Middle West and South. In crises of production, agricultural laborers have been easily enticed back in Brazil, for the exit of laborers after the last of the crisis made necessary Federal efforts to recruit new workers in Europe. When it couldn't get sufficient labor, Polish and Italian workers, were taken the debris of Russian counter-revolutionary armies, and even American coffee planters, like the cotton growers wheat farmer in the United States, from hand to mouth and never again capital necessary for him to carry on cultivation of the product that is the nation's principal source of wealth. He has to get bank advances or deal with a middleman broker. When the price drops below the cost of production, he is ruined. In Brazil the situation is worse than with us. It is in the character to be happy-go-lucky and accept today's good fortune as tomorrow's equally good break.

Of Making Money

JOHN G. NEIL

The Battle of Boston
The Book Club War has been raging violently this week in Boston where the American Booksellers' Association is in contention. The first gun in the battle of Boston was fired bright and early Monday morning by Arthur H. Hays Sulzberger, Jr., president of the association.

"It is no secret," said he, "that generally speaking, and with but few exceptions, the retail book trade of the country has not had a prosperous year, has not even the normal increase that any healthy industry should have in a prosperous period as indicated by the reports of banks, department stores and other retail organizations. It is my own personal opinion that the book clubs and their methods of publicity, advertising and distribution have played an important part in the depression."

The rest of Mr. Sulzberger's speech is an elaboration of this statement. His frankness is commendable. He is discussing the condition of an "industry" and what troubles him is simply the matter of book profits. Nowhere does he indulge in a sentimental glorification of his antagonism toward the book clubs that are hurting his business. He does not let on that he is concerned about the state of popular culture or the least. One admires him for candor, but he is hardly consistent. Literature being an "industry" can not escape the methods of modern industry. Why should it? He is simply one of those "fancy" antagonists of democracy who go down fighting before "mass" spars. We have been hearing the same bitter cry from various fields of trade for something like 30 years, and soon we shall hear it no more. It may be all too bad, but so it is—and for good reason.

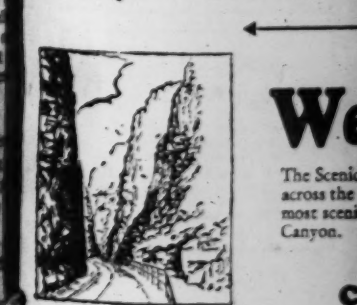

On Tuesday bright and early Mr. Robert Emmison Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology sent over a barrage. "You all remember," he said, "the story of the chorus girl and her Christmas present, with its conclusion, so pleasant to the ears of all booksellers. 'But she has a book!'—and, of course, the story has been revamped. The chorus girl's plenty of books, one every day. So the question today is, 'Will she know it's a book unless it comes from a book club?'" (She will not.—Ed.)

"You remember the opening of 'Babbalanza,' the account of George F.'s home in the garden suburb of Zurich, the stucco house with standardized garages, the bath room with all the advertised fittings, the overstuffed living-room,

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

The Battle of Boston Book Club War has been raging violently this week in Boston where the American Book Club Association is in conference. The first gun in the battle was fired Monday morning by Arthur Hays Sulzberger Jr., president of the association.

"It is no secret," said he, "that the book club movement, with but few exceptions, the retail book trade of the country has not had a successful year, has not even the normal increase that any industry should have in a year. The reports of banks, department stores and other retail organizations and the book clubs and their methods of publicity, advertising and distribution have played an important part in the depression."

The rest of Mr. Sulzberger's speech is an elaboration of this sentiment. His frankness is admirable. He is discussing the condition of an "industry" and what it means to the book club. He does not let on that he is coming in on the side of the book club. He is simply indulging in a sentimentalization of his antagonism toward the book clubs that are ruining his business. He does not let on that he is coming in on the side of the book club. He is simply indulging in a sentimentalization of his antagonism toward the book clubs that are ruining his business.

On Tuesday night and early on Wednesday morning, Mr. Robert Emmerson Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology sent over a barrage of letters. He is simply one of those "bookish" antagonists of the book club who go down fighting before they are even engaged. We have been hearing the same bitter cry from various fields of trade for something like 30 years, and soon we shall hear it no more. It may be too late, but so it is—and for good.

"You remember the opening of 'The Battle of Boston'?" the account of Mr. Rogers' home in the garden of the Zenith, the stucco house with standard garage, and the room with all the advertised fittings, the overstuffed living-room.

The point is that if one does not like what is happening in the realm of reading, it is because he doesn't like our economic system; and if he doesn't like that, he is going to find himself on the wrong planet for some time to come.

On both sides of the controversy the desire for profit determines the attitude. It can not be otherwise, although there are certainly men and women on both sides who take the higher view of literary values. If it doesn't cost them anything, they will read. In this connection, the statement by Mr. Scherman, vice-president of the Book-of-the-Month Club is of interest:

"Immediately after a resolution was brought in at the present convention criticizing our selection system, the treasurer of the Book-sellers Association arose and complained that the association had lost $7000 on its own book selection plan during 1928. In other words, they are critical of us for having a committee of judges which makes a selection from among the current books. But at their last year's convention they themselves thought the idea was so good that they tried to imitate it. Accordingly they formed their own book selection committee and appointed five eminent critics who were to function exactly as ours do. The single book these judges chose each month was to be featured in all the book stores. They tried this for several months and then abandoned it because it was unsuccessful."

The only possible value in this whole discussion is that it advertises what is happening and may serve to save a few capable minds that might otherwise be lost in the rising flood of mediocrity and worse. Such will be of the breed of Noah when at last these dark (and fecundating?) waters shall recede.

Dr. F. S. Anderson to Go to London in August for a Year's Study.

Dr. Edgar S. Anderson, director of genetics at Shaw's Garden and botany instructor at Washington University, received a fellowship for a year's study abroad from the National Research Council in recognition of his research during the last five years in plant breeding, heredity and evolution.

The fellowship allows the winner a minimum fund of $2184 and traveling expenses. Dr. Anderson, who obtained a leave of absence from the Missouri Botanical Garden and the university, will go to London in August to enter the John Innes Horticultural Institution as a graduate student.

A scientific paper, "Variations in Aster Anomalous," presenting available data on the iris, was one of the factors which brought the award to Dr. Anderson. He is 31 years old, and a graduate of Michigan State College and the Bussey Institution of Harvard.

When remembers when Sigmund Romberg pounded a piano at Busch's? Now look at him! The old lady who fortune-telling parrots. The dandily dressed clerks at Sulz's. And linen dustered "clarks" at Dunhill's, next door. Wonder if there is a notary whose commission doesn't expire on some March 15th?

Old lavender Joe with his satchel of satchel. A character on the avenue for 20 years. Dorothy Fields, Lewis's daughter, who writes lyrics. A son, Herbert, is not exactly starting as a librettist. Cholly Knickerbocker, the cherub society scribbler who is always rushing places. And dancing through life with an elfin gaiety.

A shoe repair shop that charges $3 for half-soles. Barely $3. Customers in those tiny Chinese stores, but they manage to pay enormous rents. That haunting song, "Song of India." Horseback riders who stop at Child's as a gallop. Simile. As inconspicuous as Mr. Gann. The arty Russian restaurants hang on.

THOUGHTS while strolling: Saleswomen who fix their hair and look out windows while waiting on customers. The former Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks. Perceptive police dogs on Fifth avenue unmuzzled. Thereby making it rough on dog owners who obey the law. There's a polite cop—No. 14,475. Twin boys in Napoleonic hats. Frank Cass's well kept mustache. Where is Dr. Harvey Wiley? The Colonel Carters with white goatees and thin string ties. The old Warder cabinet have scattered. Larimore, James Montgomery Flagg, a Pelham Manor boy, who made good in the city.

THE Grand Street Boys is an organization of prominent citizens who have been graduated from the School of Hard Knocks on the lower East Side and risen to affluence. There are lawyers, distinguished jurists, merchant princes and theatrical stars whose wits were sharpened on Grand Street flagstones. Each year it gives a dinner with a guest list like a section from Who's Who.

EVEN the most enthusiastic of bodheadists—comparatively new, thank you!—cannot deny the fact for long hair makes strides. Fifty per cent of the reigning debutantes are shunning the shears, temporarily at least. Coiffure parlors face the first slump since, to garland a dull paragraph with a duller phrase. The Great Shearing.

A CERTAIN actor appears almost every season in a successful play. He has never had a star role, although he invariably distinguishes his part. He belongs to no club nor have I ever seen him in a night club or other haunts where idols make themselves conspicuous. He has a comfortable fortune and a well-chosen library. He is soon to retire, one of the few actors, outside of Francis Wilson and David Warfield, who has beaten the game.

A GENTLEMAN with a warp to his humor has grown weary of answering mistaken telephone calls and has adopted a formula causing great distress among husbands who are total strangers. When some lady who has been given a wrong number inquires if Mr. Soandso is there he replies: "He was but left pie-eyed to keep a date with his sweetie." We hope somebody shoos him in the foot.

SOMETHING should be done about those Broadway jewelry auctioneers who twist the curiosity seekers stepping up to the doorway as a sale is going on. I edged up to one today. "Come in Ethelbert!" shouted the bediamonded speller. Every neck craned my way. I would have answered back but my voice invariably goes falsetto in an emotional crisis. And there I stood in buttoned shoes!

GERMAN TO SEE FIRST BALL GAME TOMORROW

Dr. Theodore Lewald of Berlin in St. Louis to Study Athletics.

Dr. Theodore Lewald of Berlin, who served as German Commissioner General at the St. Louis World's Fair, and who now, as chairman of the Reich's Commission for Physical Culture, is studying American athletic training systems, will see his first professional baseball game tomorrow afternoon at Sportsman's Park.

He is accompanied by Dr. Carl Diem, secretary of the commission, who, likewise, is unfamiliar with the American national sport except for a study of the rule book. "The game is not so easy to understand from merely reading of it," Dr. Lewald said. "I can see that there are many fine points to the game that may be understood only by witnessing a contest. My limited understanding of it recommends it to me as worthy of introducing as an amateur sport in Germany where it is unknown."

"It impresses me as a highly developed form of our 'schlagball,' which is played on a rectangular field with much less equipment than that for baseball and with fewer regulations."

While Germany encourages athletics, limitations have been placed by circumstances, Dr. Lewald said, citing the fact that St. Louis, alone, has as many golf courses as all of Germany. The cost of golf there is prohibitive to all except the wealthy and there is not a public course in Germany. Berlin, with a population exceeding 4,000,000 has only two private courses. The thickly populated country leaves few tracks of sufficient size available for golf courses.

"German swimmers are handicapped by lack of indoor natatoriums, weather allowing them to swim only about five months in the year," Dr. Lewald continued. "Our swimmers are a bit old-fashioned, too, most of them still using the breast stroke. Free style swimmers, who set new speed records, are not developing in Germany."

Soccer is the most popular game, and it is not unusual for us to have 60,000 spectators at an important contest. We have 50,000 organized soccer teams, which develop good material for our national team which has played Italian and Spanish teams. Other European countries are playing soccer, and Mussolini was an enthusiastic spectator recently when Italy was defeated by the Austrian club. "Tennis affords recreation and exercise to many of our people and we have some good players. It does not require so much space for the court, and equipment is not too expensive.

"Your game of baseball should appeal to our people and I should not be surprised to see it added to the list of 22 sports promoted by the Athletic Commission. It might become popular, but it would not replace soccer."

The visitors were guests of Chancellor Throop of Washington University at a luncheon today, and inspected the school. Tomorrow noon they will be luncheon guests at the Missouri Athletic Club of the Amateur Athletic Union. Following the baseball game they will be entertained at dinner at the Sunset Country Club, departing for Chicago tomorrow night.

FELONY CHARGED AT CLAYTON FOR ALLEGED DRUNKEN DRIVING

Warrant Issued for George J. Weber After Collision on Ladue Road.

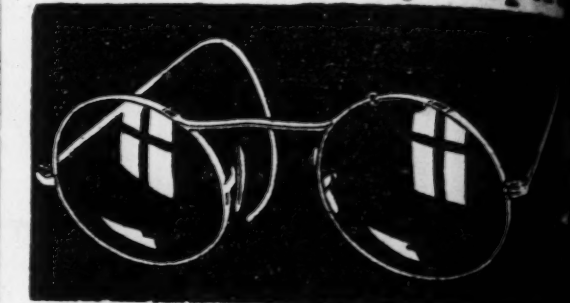

George J. Weber, 5317 Garesche avenue, was charged with driving while intoxicated in a felony warrant issued today by Justice of the Peace Werremeyer at Clayton, a short time after an automobile driven by Weber had collided with another car on Ladue road, just east of Price road.

August F. Daues, 4970 Bancroft avenue, driver of the other automobile, said he was driving east on Ladue when Weber's car approached, veering back and forth across the road. Weber forced him off the road and then struck the rear of his car, turning it over, Daues said.

Bond for Weber was fixed at $100, returnable May 23. Weber said he was a general contractor.

COAL & COKE CO.
as Exclusive Distributors of Certified SAHARA COAL for St. Louis Metropolitan District

SAHARA QUALITY
Is Verified by State Statisticians

The Illinois mining districts map shown above, is taken from official State Geological Survey Bulletin No. 58, printed by authority of the State of Illinois. The shaded areas indicate the principal mining districts and show the relative heat value of the coal mined in these different districts. The Saline County No. 5 Seam (at the lower right) is rated as having the highest B. t. u. value (heating quality) of any coal in the state. That is where Certified SAHARA comes from.

WE take great pleasure in announcing to the people of St. Louis and vicinity that the Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. leading St. Louis coal merchants, have been granted the exclusive sale of Certified Sahara Coal for this community.

In order to serve the people of St. Louis more efficiently, we have decided to distribute our Sahara through this old and well-tried organization (66 years in business in St. Louis, with distributing yards throughout the city) as we have the utmost faith in their integrity and ability properly to serve you.

The Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. will act as our retail distributors with shipments made directly from the shaft mines operating in the famous No. 5 Seam, in Saline County, Southern Illinois. This is the highest quality coal mined in the state, according to official State Geological Survey bulletins. It actually contains more heat units per pound, than other kinds of Illinois coal; makes a quick, easily controlled fire, and leaves little ash.

When in need of coal, try a load of Certified SAHARA. Satisfaction guaranteed—or your money refunded. Phone your order to the Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. Telephone GARfield 3720.

AGAINST FOREST PARK ROAD

Improvement Association Opposes Plan for Commercial Highway.

A resolution protesting against the suggestion to construct a commercial road across the southeastern corner of Forest Park to connect with Kingshighway and Hampton avenue, was adopted by the South Forest Park Improvement Association last night at the Dewey School.

Speakers declared the city lacked authority to carry out the plan. Copies of the resolution were sent to Mayor Miller, members of the Board of Aldermen, Director of Public Welfare Salisbury and Park Commissioner Pape.

ARCHEOLOGISTS VISIT CAHOKIA MOUND GROUP

Midwestern Conference Leaders Urge Treasures Be Saved From Vandals.

Save the ancient Indian mounds from curio hunters and vandals. Make their treasure of America's pre-history the property of all the people.

These are the keynotes of the Conference on Midwestern Archeology which opened today at Hotel Coronado. Governors and other administrative officers of Mississippi Valley states are joining with scientists in the first interstate movement to preserve these unique earthen monuments built by the Indians before the white man's coming. Plovers, steam-shovels, and the spades of indiscriminating diggers are rapidly erasing the lines of these documents, which are almost the only record of pre-Columbian man in the great middle valley of this country.

The lawmakers and scientists were to spend the afternoon on an inspection tour of the great Cahokia mound group near East St. Louis, which is under the protection of the State of Illinois. Dr. Warren K. Moorehead, anthropologist who has made a special study of this locality led the group.

Relics taken from Indian mounds of this continent were not mere nomad hunters. They stayed in large settlements, farmed the land and conducted trade with other tribes as far away as Yellowstone Park and the Gulf of Mexico.

14-YEAR-OLD BOY ADMITS FAKING KIDNAPING STORY

Martin Gowan Declares He Ran Away From Home for Adventure.

Martin Gowan, 14 years old, who told Mrs. Elizabeth Sebeault, 4643 St. Louis avenue, with whom he sought refuge last night, that he was kidnapped Wednesday and held a captive until he managed to escape yesterday, admitted to police upon being questioned that he had merely run away from home for adventure and had concocted the kidnapping story to escape punishment.

Martin, whose parents are separated and who four weeks ago was placed in the home of Mrs. Louise Bucholz, 4207 Evans avenue, by the Board of Children's Guardians, came to the Sebeault home at 12:05 a. m. today, told the story of his kidnapping and asked for shelter. Mrs. Sebeault took him in and informed police. When they arrived the boy admitted he left his guardian's home Wednesday "just to wander around awhile," and had wandered until midnight last night, when he became tired.

ST. LOUIS TO GET MORE BARGES TO MOVE WHEAT CROP

going to let the railroads make a reduction and fail to meet it." A new note of assurance was observed by acquaintances of Gen. Ashburn. Under the Denison bill the barge lines have $10,000,000 new capital and the certainty of a national network of joint rates for interchange of freight with railroads. President Hoover is committed to fostering standard channels and standard equipment, and Secretary of War Good is a strong advocate of prompt consummation of that policy. Political and sectional influences, which have threatened to encroach upon this purely economic and practical Government function, have been reported subordinated, and Gen. Ashburn obviously felt that the waterways actually are "out of the wilderness."

Barges Ready in July.
"Our first new barges, of the improved type for use on the upper and lower Mississippi channels, will be completed in July," he said. "We should have five or six of them when the heavy movement of the new crop begins in late summer, 25 by the middle of September and all 40 before the end of the year."

"We agreed, in the meeting with elevator operators, to allocate certain numbers of barges to St. Louis, upper river cities and Cairo in the peak grain movement. We cannot hope to move all the grain offered in any one city, and would not attempt it, since we must regard our other shippers, but grain men will know, at least, how many barges they may count on and, therefore, will run no chance of buying on the basis of the low river rate and then having to ship at the higher rail rate."

"The new barges can be loaded to 1000 tons at the Twin Cities for the six-foot upper river channel, and another 1000 tons can be loaded on each barge at St. Louis for the nine-foot lower Mississippi channel. This will obviate all that business of transferring freight here from the light upper river barges to the heavier type on the lower river."

Barges for Local Service.
"As the new adaptable barges are put into the service, we plan to assign the light equipment, now playing the upper Mississippi to local service, thus giving intermediate river cities for the first time full advantage of their location. And it's the first time we've been able definitely to plan so far ahead."

plans to the Advisory Board in July. One of them will be a light-draft, but powerful, type for use on the Illinois. A very heavy and powerful type is planned for the Mississippi below Memphis, and one of lighter draft, but no less power, for the river between Memphis and St. Louis. "With these in service, the rivers can adopt the efficient division system of the railroads. It is not a program for one year, or two, but it means the waterways have reached the stage of certain and continued efficiency and growth."

GRAFT AND LIQUOR TRADE INCREASING ON CANADIAN LINE

Statistical data given by the Canadian Government with relation to liquor exports, said Dr. Doran, "and it can readily be seen that the volume of importation from Canada is not only substantial, but has steadily increased since 1924. Americans know that it is the one source of what they regard as reasonably authentic liquor, and it furnishes a springboard, so to speak, from which moonshine supplies are bottled, labeled and stamped with counterfeit labels and Canadian stamps.

"Canadian liquor, therefore, occupies a position in the American market that even exceeds its present great actual volume."

Admiral Billard reiterated the position of the American delegation that nothing short of the desired treaty, doing away with official clearances of liquor destined for the United States, would be of material help to this country in coping with the border problem.

Canadians Reply.

After the conference had disbanded, the Canadians summed up for their Government the points they had made in answering the American contentions. Some of these, as set out in the Canadian digest, were as follows:

"The difficulty, as to liquor smuggling into the United States was, of course, not of Canada's making, but following a different method of solving the problem of the control of intoxicating liquors. The United States had adopted a system of national prohibition, whereas seven of the nine provinces of Canada had adopted a system of legalized sale for beverage purposes under provincial governmental control. The problem would practically disappear if the United States adopted a system of legalized sale for beverage purposes, or if the Canadian provinces adopted complete prohibition.

"It was considered desirable, in order that the problem might be seen in its proper perspective, to recall the estimates of United States authorities, the amount of liquor smuggled from Canada—while substantial and publicly recorded—was apparently a very small fraction of the total supply available in the United States.

Most Bootleggers From U. S.

"The question was raised whether further steps could not be taken by the United States authorities for the better control of the traffic. It was pointed out that nearly 100 per cent of the boats carrying liquor and of the people engaged in the traffic were from the United States, and that the navigation laws of the United States appeared to call for the registering with the Collector of the district of all United States vessels before engaging in foreign trade.

"Attention also was called by the Canadian representatives to the frequency of shipments in daylight along the Detroit and Niagara frontiers within sight of both shores. Photographs had been taken showing boats with liquor cargoes crossing the river in open daylight.

"As regards the statement (by the American delegation) that Great Britain did not clear shipments of liquor to the United States, it was pointed out that, while this information had been conveyed from official British sources to United States authorities some years ago, it was evidently erroneous.

Would Diffuse Traffic.

"The opinion was expressed that the stopping of open shipments along the Niagara and Detroit border would simply result in the diffusion of the traffic along the whole border by road, rail and unfrequented water routes."

The Canadians, in fine, served polite notice that they were ready doing all they could be expected to do toward helping the United States enforce its laws. They promised, however, to lay the United States proposal before their Government.

On March 15 last, after the conference, the Canadian Government offered to assist the United States under the existing treaty by permitting United States officers to be stationed at ports of clearance on the Canadian side, in order that they might receive and immediately transmit information regarding the clearance of vessels for this country.

Reply by U. S.

The United States Government in its reply "appreciated the graciousness" of the Canadian offer, but said that it would not solve the problem. Through Minister Phillips, the State Department pointed out that the Canadians themselves were already furnishing clearance information, most of which, through no fault of the Canadian officials, was fictitious. There was no reason to believe, the Department said, that information transmitted through Americans would be any more reliable.

"The Government of the United States remains convinced," said the Minister's note, "that the only effective means of dealing with the smuggling problem along the border is the conclusion of a treaty amending the convention of 1924, to the end that clearance be denied to shipments of commodities from either country when their importation is prohibited in the other."

And there the matter rests today.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

The Less Experienced Housekeepers Will Find This Column of Interest.

An excellent fish roe may be bought very inexpensively in cans ready for use. To make the omelet use one can of the roe mixed with one well-beaten egg, a teaspoon of lemon juice and salt and pepper to season. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a frying pan, pour in the fish mixture and cook slowly until firm and brown underneath. This will take about 10 minutes. Fold and serve hot.

Veal Kidneys With Bacon.
Two kidneys will serve four people. Have most of the fat removed and the kidneys sliced crosswise. Cook one-fourth pound of bacon until crisp, then keep warm until ready to serve. Pour off most of the bacon fat from the pan, put in the kidneys and brown quickly on one side, turn, cover the pan, reduce the heat slightly and cook for three or four minutes longer.

Then stir in one teaspoon of flour, one-half cup of hot water, one teaspoon of lemon juice and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Pour the kidneys in a hot platter, surround with the bacon and garnish with watercress.

Sardines on Toast.
Remove the skin and tail of the fish, place in a mortar or bowl and work into a paste, seasoning with celery salt and paprika. Spread on crisp slices of toast and place in a hot oven to brown. Serve hot.

Endive Salad.
One head curly endive, or two large bunches French endive, three oranges, one-fourth cup French dressing.

Wash clean, dry on clean towel, and arrange endive on salad plates. Place a mound of diced orange in center and serve with French dressing.

Mixed Vegetable Salad.
Stone and chop olives and add in generous proportions to a salad made from shredded cabbage and red peppers, moistened with salad dressing.

Blueberry Muffins.
Two and three-fourths cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-third cup sugar, one cup milk, one egg, one-fourth cup shortening and one cup canned blueberries.

Mix ingredients in the order given. Drain blueberries and add to mixture. Bake in a hot oven for about 25 minutes or until the muffins are cooked. Peaches, pineapple, apricots or prunes may be cut in small pieces and used in place of the blueberries.

SOME CEREAL SUGGESTIONS

New Ideas Concerning This Breakfast Dish Always Welcome.
Buy cereals in small quantities and keep in tightly covered jars or packages.

After five minutes of cooking over direct fire place cereal in a double boiler and cook until done. Save your cereal left over from breakfast! Mold or slice it and fry. Serve with syrup as a dessert for luncheon or supper.

CABBAGE IS NO LONGER CONSIDERED PLEBEIAN

Cabbage, resembling lettuce in form of growth, has a stronger flavor and a more tightly formed head. In past years it was considered a rather plebeian vegetable when served cooked, but nowadays in its raw state it takes an honored place among green salads because it is known to be digestible and rich in vitamins.

To prepare cabbage for salad, select a small firm head and remove the outside leaves. Cut head in halves and with a sharp knife cut off very thin slices until the desired amount has been obtained. Let stand in cold water one-half hour, drain, put in clean towel or lettuce bag and place on ice till ready to use. Serve with chiffonade dressing.

A new way to serve this salad is to remove the center of the cabbage leaving the outside shell. Shred or chop the inner leaves and moisten with cooked salad dressing. Refill the cabbage shell and decorate with strips of pimiento. Place on chop plate or platter and garnish with watercress. This makes a very attractive salad to be served at the table by the hostess.

VARIOUS ENTICING WAYS OF DRESSING UP ICE CREAM

Mash and sweeten to taste strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, cherries, peaches, pineapples or other fruits, and serve over each portion of cream.

One cup brown sugar, one-third cup water, two teaspoons corn starch, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-quarter teaspoon lemon extract. Boil first three ingredients together, stir constantly for five minutes. Cool slightly, add flavoring, and serve on vanilla ice cream. Add chopped nut meats if desired.

Two squares chocolate, one and one-half cups cold milk, one-half cup sugar. Boil together until thickened. Served hot over each portion of cream.

Concerning Toddlers.

If you have a child of the toddler age, between 3 and 4 years, for example, his weight should be between 25 and 37½ pounds. As for energy, such a youngster will require from 37 to 49 calories or measures of energy per pound of his body weight. In making up his dietary then, see that you have clearly in mind the energy content of the various foods which together make up his very rigidly restricted diet.

FRUIT JUICES WHOLESOME

Great Benefit Derived From Frequent Use of Fruits.

One very useful way of insuring plenty of the fruit acids is by the liberal use of fruit juices. Fruit drinks have a cooling effect on the system and should be used often. Fresh lemon or lime juice added to the sweeter fruits brings out the flavor and gives added value. The juice from stewed rhubarb in combination with orange juice makes a delicious beverage. The carbonated fruit drinks used either alone or in combination with fresh fruits are also wholesome and may be freely used.

ATTRACTIVE DISHES FOR MAYTIME MENUS

Frequent Changes in the Daily Food Make for a Satisfied Family.

In the merry month of May, the appetite oftentimes needs a bit of coaxing to make it respond to three meals a day. Housekeepers will be amply repaid for every effort they make to prepare menus that are attractive to all members of the family.

A different soup, a new way of serving a meat dish, a different salad or an unusual dessert will offer stimulation to the appetite. Any or all of the dishes mentioned below will be found excellent for such occasions.

Chicken en Casserole.

Season disjointed chicken with salt, pepper and one tablespoon chopped green pepper. Add two cups water and cook one hour. Then add one cup small white onions, small head cauliflower, one cup mushrooms and one cup green peas. Cook one hour and serve hot.

May Punch.

One quart of strawberries, one pint of cherries, the juice of two lemons, three quarts of water, one and one-half pounds of sugar. Hull, wash and mash the strawberries; stem, pit and crush the cherries. Mix, add the lemon juice and place in refrigerator for two hours. Crush the cherry pits, steep in a quart of water for an hour, add the sugar, boil 10 minutes, strain and cool. Press the fruit through a fine sieve, add the cold syrup and two quarts of water and serve in glasses half filled with chopped ice.

Rhubarb Charlotte.

Soften two tablespoons gelatin in one cup cold water. Dissolve standing in pan of boiling water. To one pint cooked rhubarb, which has been sweetened to taste (about two cups sugar) add dissolved gelatin. Remove from stove and add two tablespoons orange marmalade and stir occasionally until mixture begins to set. Then fold in 1½ cups whipped cream, and pour into cone-shaped moulds. Place on circles of sponge cake and dress with whipped cream.

Fried Noodles.

Fry one loaf diced bread in pan with butter to a golden brown. Boil noodles in salt water for about eight minutes. Pour off the water. Put in a lump of butter and a cup of cream. Boil one minute. Then pour over the bread. Stir them up and serve.

SEVERAL INTERESTING WAYS TO USE HARD-COOKED EGGS

They Work Up Very Nicely Into Palatable Salads and Sandwiches.

Cut six or eight hard-cooked eggs in halves, lengthwise. Remove the yolks, mash and mix with one tablespoon melted butter, one tablespoon tomato catsup and salt and pepper to taste.

Pack this mixture into the egg halves and press two halves together. Arrange on nests of shredded lettuce. Pour about two tablespoons cooked salad dressing over each egg and sprinkle the lettuce with well seasoned French dressing. Garnish with finely chopped olives.

Chopped Egg Sandwich.

One dozen eggs, hard boiled, separate whites from yolks, mix yolks with small bottle salad dressing, run whites through chopper or chop fine with chopping knife. Mix all together, add just enough vinegar to spread nicely, salt to taste. Spread on thin slices of bread with a lettuce leaf. These are very nice for the picnic basket, as they keep moist longer than most sandwiches.

TASTY DESSERTS ENJOYED BY CHILDREN AND ADULTS

Many Sweets Suitable for Grown-Ups Are Too Heavy for Children.

Tapioa desserts are healthful for adults and children alike. This is a great convenience for the woman who would otherwise have to prepare a special dessert for the children.

There are two types of tapioa desserts—these cooked on top of the stove and those which are partially cooked on top of the stove and then turned into a baking dish and cooked in the oven until done.

The first step for the first is to cook the tapioa in scalded milk, or some other hot liquid, in a double boiler (stirring frequently) until the tapioa is clear. This takes about 15 minutes. At the end of this time, the mixture may seem too thin, but it thickens to the proper consistency as it cools. From this foundation, innumerable delicious combinations can easily be made.

DELICIOUS HONEY PUFFS

Interesting Sweetmeats That Are Very Easily Made.

Three cups of sugar, one cup cream, one-quarter cup honey, white of one egg, one-half cup nut meats, one-half cup candied pineapple.

Boil sugar and cream until it will almost thread and add honey. When it reaches soft-ball stage, take from fire and beat it into stiffly beaten white of an egg. Continue beating for one minute and add nuts and pineapple chopped.

Beat until firm and creamy, and shape into balls between fingers with wet napkin, then cool. A speck of salt adds to flavor.

Radish and Scallion Salad.

Slice cold crisp radishes very thin. Soak scallions in ice water half an hour and then slice thin. Combine with radishes, using one-half as many scallions as radishes. Mix with French dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish each serving with radish rose.

CREAMED CHICKEN LIVERS

Prepared With Mushrooms They Are a Tasty Morsel.

Wash one-half pound of medium-sized mushrooms, peel the caps, and scrape the stems. Cover two chicken livers with hot water, add a slice of onion, one-half teaspoon of salt, and cook slowly for ten minutes. Then cut in small pieces, saving the liquid.

Melt one tablespoon of butter,
add the mushrooms, cover and cook slowly for ten minutes, stirring occasionally.

Pour in the chicken livers and the liquid in which they were cooked, one-half cup of top milk, and enough salt and pepper to season.
Heat to the boiling point and thicken with two teaspoons of flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold water. Simmer for five minutes and serve over mounds of boiled rice, in butter shells or on toast.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Each Individual Housewife Has Her Own Problem Along This Line.

Broiled spring chicken forms the main course of the tempting dinner planned for Sunday this week. This is always a popular, though not inexpensive, dish, but its deliciousness justifies an occasional use even on an economical budget.

Either very young broilers may be used, allowing one-half to each serving, or the slightly larger young spring chickens may be selected weighing about two pounds each. These may be quartered and will prove a little less expensive than broilers.

In either case, singe the chickens, rinse in cold water, drain thoroughly, and brush with melted fat on both the flesh and skin sides.

Place skin side up on the broiler or in a large roasting pan, and cook in a very hot oven for 15 minutes. Then turn and finish cooking in the oven or, preferably, under the broiler at a somewhat reduced heat, as the skin burns very readily.

It will take 15 to 20 minutes longer cooking, and you will have to watch carefully that the chicken does not burn.

When done, remove to a hot platter, garnish with parsley or watercress and serve with flaky boiled rice and a rich milk gravy, or a mixture of creamed mushrooms mixed with the chicken livers after the recipe given elsewhere on this page.

The bones from the chicken can be well used to make the stock for the cream of chicken soup served next day for lunch.

Many housekeepers find it rather a difficult problem to plan variations in the breakfast menus so as to give a change from bacon or eggs.

This week we have served veal kidneys with bacon, a fish roe omelet, and fried tomatoes with bacon in order to get just this variation. The recipe is given for cooking the veal kidneys—if these cannot be easily gotten lamb or pork kidneys may be substituted or liver used instead, cooking them all in the same way.

GRACE THE DINNER TABLE WITH A FOWL OR MEAT PIE
A Hearty Dish That Always Wins
Its Way on Its Merits.

Beef, lamb, veal, or chicken may be used in this dish. A medium-sized chicken, or three pounds of other meat, should be purchased.

Cut the meat in pieces suitable for serving, dust it with salt and pepper, roll it in flour, and then fry until slightly browned in sufficient dripping to keep it from sticking. Add a bit of bay-leaf, one and a half teaspoonsful of salt and three cupsful of boiling water, and simmer until tender, about two hours.

Then remove the bay-leaf, add lemon juice to taste, and one and a half cupsful of diced, raw potatoes.

Stir in a cupful of cooked peas, diced string beans, or—with chicken—dried apricots; thicken with a third cupful of flour creamed with three tablespoonsful of butter, and bring to boiling point. Transfer to an open casserole, or meat-pie dish, cover with biscuits made of flaky biscuit crust, set in a hot oven, and bake from twenty to twenty-five minutes.

EGG AND SALMON SALAD
This Is a Hearty Dish Which Is Almost a Meal In Itself.

Hard boil six eggs, cool, peel and cut in half lengthwise. Remove the yolks and save for garnishing the salad.

Mash one cup of flaked cooked or canned salmon, and add one tablespoon of chopped chives and enough mayonnaise to moisten.
Stuff the egg whites with this, and arrange on lettuce, filling the spaces between the eggs with diced celery and green pepper that have been seasoned with French dressing.

Rub the egg yolks through a strainer and sprinkle them thickly over the celery. Serve very cold.
A little additional mayonnaise may be used to garnish each stuffed egg.

DAINTY ITALIAN TART
This Is a Dessert Which Carries Its Own Appeal.

Beat three egg yolks until light with three tablespoons of sugar.
Sift three tablespoons of flour that has been mixed with one-half teaspoon of baking powder and add to the egg yolk.

Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the three eggs and one-half teaspoon of grated lemon rind. Pour the mixture into a medium-sized, greased ring mold or angel cake pan and bake in a moderate oven for thirty-five minutes.
Invert and let stand until cold.
Then remove from the pan and place in a deep serving plate.
Cut gashes at equal intervals all over the cake and pour hot lemon sauce, flavored with maraschino licia or rum flavoring over the cake with a tablespoon. Letting it soak into all the gashes. Use one cup of sauce. Let stand until cold, fill the center with whipped cream and garnish with maraschino cherries.

DAINTY STRAWBERRY PRESERVES AND JAM

Consider Jam and Preserves as Every-Day Food and Not as Sweets.

Continued sunny weather while strawberries are in season is the time for sun preserves. Three cups of small berries, two pounds of selected berries and two pounds of granulated sugar is a recommended recipe, and the preserves are made this way:

Select large, ripe, solid fruit; wash well and cap. Crush and cook three cups of smaller berries for three minutes, stirring all the time. Strain. This should yield about one cup of juice. To this add the sugar and heat slowly until entirely dissolved. Remove from fire and drop large berries into syrup and allow mass to stand for one to three minutes. Drain fruit from syrup and place carefully on shallow pans.

Boil syrup for about 10 minutes. It should be fairly thick. Pour over berries in a thin layer. Cover with window glass, allowing an air space on all sides. Place pans in sun and turn berries over before next day's sunning. Repeat this for three days or until syrup has formed a jelly. This amount yields a little over one pint of fruit.

Strawberry and Gooseberry Jam.
Three pounds gooseberries and two pounds of strawberries.

Pick over gooseberries and remove stems and tails. Wash and hull strawberries. Put berries in a saucepan and crush with a wooden spoon or potato masher. Heat slowly to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Measure; add an equal amount of sugar and boil rapidly for 20 minutes or until the mixture jells from the spoon. Pour at once into small sterilized jars and seal with melted paraffin when cold.

Strawberry Jam.
When made into a jam, strawberries, as a rule, are improved by the addition of some tart element. Combine equal parts of strawberries and shredded pineapple with sugar equal in weight to the fruit. Boil until clear, trying a little in a saucer before taking out.

Strawberry Conserve.
Wash and hull three boxes of strawberries and mash them a little. Put pineapple from one can, one orange and one-half pound seeded raisins through the food chopper and add the juice of one lemon. Combine all, and add sugar equal to the weight of the fruit. Cook until thick, stirring it frequently.

MOCK CHICKEN A LA KING IS A CLEVER IMITATION
Many Cannot Distinguish Between the Real and the Imitation.

Not so very long since a recipe for mock chicken salad was featured in this section.

Mock chicken a la king has reached the editorial desk, or rather the recipe for the dish has been sent in with a request that it be published. Here are directions for making it.

Take a small can of tuna fish, one cup mushrooms, two tablespoons pimentos, one chopped green pepper and three cups milk. Bring milk to a boil and thicken with flour, then add one large tablespoon butter and salt and pepper to taste. Add the ingredients enumerated above and heat to boiling point.

Remove from fire and serve on toast or in patty shells. Sprinkle with paprika.

UNWISE TO DISCUSS FOOD
Mother Should Not Talk About Food in Children's Presence.

It is a wise mother who does not discuss food with her children in so far as asking them what they would like to eat.

Food habits are usually a result of early training or impressions. Children who hear food discussed at the table, or who are given the opportunity of hearing their elders decline helpings of food because they "don't like or never eat them," or who see special favor paid to some person because of such dislikes, are very likely to develop rather suddenly decided notions about food.

VEGETABLES FOR CHILDREN
Mothers Should Endeavor to Prepare Them Appealingly.

The carrots are cooked in a small amount of water so that they keep their natural flavor, and then they are combined with butter, cream and minced parsley. It is that touch of minced parsley which makes them so different.

Steamed spinach keeps all of the flavor and mineral content of the spinach. Right now it is especially desirable in our diet for its iron which builds the blood. When it is served with lemon butter it is most tempting.

HOW TO COOK ARTICHOKE
This Vegetable Is Beginning to Come Into General Use.

In the first place the artichokes should be very tender and green. Wash the vegetables well and place with heavy end down in a kettle containing boiling salted water. Use one-half teaspoon of salt to one quart of water.

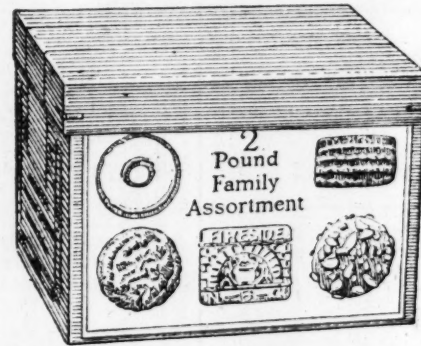

Let this boil rapidly until the leaves will separate quite easily. Then place the artichokes, other end out, in a strainer and allow them to drain for about 15 minutes.

Caviar Sandwiches.
For informal suppers serve caviar in a fancy bowl. Sandwiches can be made at the table. Spread caviar on buttered bread or toast, using chopped onions and sliced lemons, and garnish as desired.

No more half dissolved soaps

New soap in "bead" form prevents gray washes.
Saves one rinsing. Gives cleaner, whiter clothes.

DON'T start washing when soap is but half dissolved. It makes clothes gray and muddy. Stops them in ironing.

Here's a new soap that dissolves instantly—completely! It puts an end forever to the nuisance of coaxing chips and flakes to dissolve; to rinsing and rinsing to get out clinging bits of soap.

It's Super Suds. Soap in a delightful new form. Tiny, tissue-thin, hollow beads that flood your washwater with a rush of instant suds, just as the test below shows you. Rich underwater suds, the kind that work below the water where clothes are really washed.

Three ways Super Suds spears washing
(as given in 212,960 answers from women)

No waiting for suds. Just add water, hard or soft, hot or cool. You get instant rich suds. No stirring. No coaxing. No waiting.

Faster washing with underwater suds. Instant suds all through the water penetrate swiftly to every thread and fiber. Wash clothes clean with magic speed.

One less rinsing. This perfectly dissolved soap rinses out faster than any other soap made. No soap remains to gray clothes or spot them in ironing. Clothes are clear, white and soap-free in actually one less rinsing.

Melted soap sprayed from towers

Super Suds is not chips. Not powder. But beads. Made by spraying melted soap from high steel towers. In falling the soap forms into millions of tiny hollow beads. Finer than raindrops. Soluble as snow. The thinnest, fastest working form of soap known.

Buy Super Suds today. Your grocer has it. Use it for washbowl, tub or machine washing. Use it for dishwashing. The gentlest soap for tender hands. And cuts dishwashing time one-third to one-half.

Make this amazing test!

Put a teaspoonful of Super Suds in a glass; a teaspoonful of any chip or flake in another. Now fill both glasses with water cool enough to be comfortable for hands.

Instantly, every bit of Super Suds rushes into suds all through the water. Instantly every drop of water in the glass becomes creamy with soapiness, while in the other glass chips float about, dissolving very slowly.

This is how these soaps act in your dishpan. This is why Super Suds cleans with such amazing swiftness.

DELICATE CUSTARDS ARE NICE DESSERTS

They Are Ideal and Wholesome for Springtime Family Meals.

The secret in making a successful baked custard lies almost entirely in the cooking. It must be cooked very slowly to avoid hardening the egg and making it separate from the milk.

Egg cooks at a very low temperature, as you probably know. To insure a slow, even heat when baking a custard, it is usually best to place the baking dish in a pan of hot water, and then regulate the heat of the oven so that the water stays below the boiling point.

It is also necessary, in order to have a smooth custard, to allow one egg for each cup of milk, or four eggs for each quart.

If you wish to make a custard that can be turned out five or six eggs to the quart of milk will give better results.

The following recipe is one used with good success for years.
Scald one quart of milk. Beat five eggs until light, add four tablespoons of sugar and one-half teaspoon of salt. Stir in the hot milk gradually, and flavor as desired with two teaspoons of vanilla extract, or one-eighth teaspoon of grated nutmeg.

Pour into a buttered baking dish, stand the dish in a pan of hot water, and bake in a very moderate oven about 50 minutes or until the custard is firm.

Test it by running a silver knife through the center; if the knife comes out clean the custard is done; if it is milky it will require a little longer cooking. When done from the oven and cool slowly.

Apple Meringue.
It consists of an apple and the white of an egg. First the apple is grated and two or three tablespoons of sugar added. The white of egg is then added to the apple and sugar and beaten until it is light.

You'll like the tempting taste of ripe, juicy tomatoes and the spicy tang of the tabasco, blended to produce the inimitable flavor of this Brooks Catsup. Get it in the distinctive tapered bottle from your grocer today.

To bake surely and successfully the up-to-date housewife no longer guesses as to the heat of her oven.

In order to control oven temperature many baking experts insist upon having a glass panel in the oven door through which they can watch the baking process without disturbing the heat.

Many ranges are equipped with even heat regulators which make it possible to maintain any degree of heat desired.

MODERN COOKS BAKE BY TEMPERATURE

Hit or Miss Method Succeeded by Oven Regulators and Thermometers.

To bake surely and successfully the up-to-date housewife no longer guesses as to the heat of her oven.

She measures her heat as accurately as she measures the ingredients of her recipe.

In order to control oven temperature many baking experts insist upon having a glass panel in the oven door through which they can watch the baking process without disturbing the heat.

Many ranges are equipped with oven heat regulators which make it possible to maintain any degree of heat desired.

For ranges not so equipped a dependable oven thermometer is placed on the oven shelf where the baking is to be done. If the light near the oven door is poor a flashlight is convenient for reading the temperature.

If there is no oven thermometer at hand, one can still gauge the temperature of the oven by either of the following tests:

A teaspoon of flour spread about one-half inch thick on a small pan will turn golden brown in a very hot oven (405 degrees—550 Degrees F.) in two minutes; hot oven (400 degrees—450 degrees F.) in four minutes; moderate oven (350 degrees—400 degrees F.) in 10 minutes; slow oven (250 degrees—350 degrees F.) in 30 minutes.

Or place a piece of unglazed white paper for five minutes on the shelf to be used for baking. In a hot oven (400 degrees—500 degrees F.) it turns dark brown; moderate oven (350 degrees—400 degrees F.) it turns medium brown; slow oven (250 degrees—350 degrees F.) it turns a delicate golden brown.

Smothered Flank Steak.
Buy a two-pound flank steak. Take three-fourths cup of rice, one cup sliced onions, one green pepper, chopped, four cups tomatoes and two teaspoons salt. Place the steak in the bottom of a baking dish, cover with rice which has been previously boiled and the uncooked vegetables.

“I have used Hellmann's for seven or eight years. Like lots of other cooks, I didn't think prepared mayonnaise could be really good. But Hellmann's is as fine as any mayonnaise you can mix in your kitchen. Its flavor is delicious, and it is always absolutely uniform. It's easy to see it must contain only the very best eggs and pure oil.”

—Nellie McFadden

This is why Nellie McFadden, cook for Mrs. Nicholas Biddle of Philadelphia, insists on Hellmann's.

“better Tasting”

DECLARE FAMOUS COOKS

In the homes where the most tempting salads are served, where the choicest, most luscious fruits and vegetables are made into new and delightful combinations—those are the homes where Hellmann's Mayonnaise is treasured.

Hellmann's has the full, rich taste of real mayonnaise, which comes from the very best of ingredients—choice eggs, delicate salad oil, pure vinegar, rare spices—and nothing besides these.

Hellmann's is blended with painstaking care from a treasured recipe of old France. And tireless, hour-long beating gives it that even, velvety texture which never varies.

In six different parts of the country this mayonnaise is made in spotless, shining kitchens and rushed from the nearest one to your grocer. Each jar must be as fresh when it reaches you as the salad upon which you use it, and its luscious smoothness and flavor must never vary. That's why Hellmann's satisfies the finest cooks everywhere.

Buy a jar of Hellmann's today and keep it always on hand. At all grocers. The popular family size is 1/2 pint—25¢. Other sizes, 3 1/2 ounce, pint, and quart jars.

“You can tell by the way Hellmann's tastes that it contains fine eggs and pure oil. It has the true mayonnaise flavor. I use a lot of mayonnaise and I find Hellmann's makes the best salad. I have used it for more than four years. It is equally satisfactory plain or as a base for Thousand Island, Hollandaise, or Russian Dressing.”

—Anna Connolly

Many Food Experts Advise Use of Raw Vegetables

Some Attractive and Appetizing Ways of Preparing Various Uncooked Spring Vegetables for the Table.

You've no idea how many of the ordinary garden vegetables may be eaten raw until you've experimented a little. Contrary to old-fashioned ideas about the indigestibility of raw foods, very few vegetables, when eaten raw will hurt you and if grated when hard and tough, they may then be mixed with Mayonnaise to give them pliancy.

Have you ever tasted a raw grated turnip or carrot and don't you like raw cabbage? The uncooked vegetables are much better to keep the teeth in condition, by virtue of chewing these raw green things—higher in mineral salts and vitamins when uncooked—much more sure to furnish the necessary roughage, when the cellulose has not been softened so thoroughly as in cooking—much more delicately yet distinctly flavored when raw, and oh such a saving of hot dull days in the kitchen.

Raw carrots will usually be eaten if they are served with cheese in the following manner: Scrape the carrots. Prepare cream cheese by molding it into the shape of a carrot. Roll this in the scraped carrots, taking care to completely cover it. Place a sprig of parsley in the large end. Serve with a jelly vegetable salad.

Today we know that if raw tender vegetables are finely scraped and pulverized, they furnish a salad that is particularly wholesome and in most cases popular. Two parts of raw carrots may be combined with one part of finely chopped apple and served with French dressing, and this is only one suggestion.

Spring Salad.
On a bed of shredded lettuce arrange finely sliced radishes, onion and fresh peppers. Serve with two-thirds cup French dressing, one-half cup cottage cheese and one-half cup cottage dressing. Combine the two ingredients and beat thoroughly.

Sliced Radish Salad.
Water cress, two bunches of radishes, French dressing.
Pick over and wash water cress clean; drain and dry thoroughly. Wash and slice radishes thinly; being careful not to cut through entirely, so that they will retain their shape. Use three for each service.

PROBLEM OF LEFTOVERS

Most Housewives Find This Is a Very Vexatious Question. Leftovers of meat, fish, vegetables and cereals can be used advantageously in making soups. The heavy vegetable pulp soups, such as split pea or bean soup, the cream of vegetable soups and the milk chowders are rich in food value. The thin meat stocks are valuable chiefly as appetizers. The plain vegetable soups contain the food value of the vegetables they contain. If cereals are added, it increases the food value.

Meat stock is water in which meat and meat bones have been cooked. When dark meat is used, it is called brown stock; when light meat is used, it is called white stock. Vegetable stock is water in which vegetables have been cooked.

Make a Lettuce Bag.
From a half yard square of cheese-cloth a bag can be made which is fine for keeping lettuce in the refrigerator. It should be washed and aired frequently to keep it perfectly sweet and clean.

HOW TO PUT MEATS AWAY IN FAMILY REFRIGERATOR

Housekeepers Should Give This Subject Thought Especially in Hot Weather.

Always remove the paper wrapper from the meat when it comes from the market. Paper left on meat sticks and becomes very difficult to remove and a slime may develop. Place the meat on a clean dish.

Cooked meats dry out very quickly so if you wish to keep them in the best condition put them in tightly covered containers. Use as few plates as possible. While large pieces of meat, such as roasts and poultry, must be put on plates, many meats such as steaks, chops and meat for stews, may be placed in tall containers.

Strawberry Salad.
Peel pineapple and remove eyes. Cut in slices and then in cubes. Wash, hull and chill the strawberries. Combine the fruit and arrange on crisp leaves of lettuce or chicory. Sprinkle with the mint and serve with fruit salad dressing. Canned pineapple may be used in this recipe.

TWO REAL COMPANY DISHES FOR PARTY REFRESHMENTS
No Mistake Could Be Made in Selecting Either One of These Dishes.
Hostesses who contemplate entertaining with a bridge party or an informal luncheon can do no better than select jellied chicken or tongue in aspic for the main dish of the occasion.
Both are delicious foods and easily prepared if the subjoined receipts are followed.

Jellied Chicken.
Dress clean and cut up a fowl. Put in a stewpan with two slices onion, cover with boiling water and cook until meat falls from bone. When half cooked, add one-half tablespoonful salt. Remove chicken, reduce stock to two cups, strain, skim off fat, and add one tablespoonful gelatin, soaked in four tablespoons cold water.
Decorate bottom of a mold with parsley and slices of hard-boiled eggs, peas, slices of plum, and peppers. Pack in chicken. Cover with salt and pepper. Pour stock, and place mold under heavy weight. Keep in refrigerator until firm. Canned chicken may be used if desired.

Tongue Molded in Aspic.
Line a mold with a quarter layer of aspic jelly. Arrange this a pattern of hard-boiled slices. When set add second layer of aspic; then a layer of tongue. Add another layer of aspic, sliced eggs and another layer of aspic.
Chill three hours in refrigerator. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and garnish with thin slices of tomato.

We Bake It For Your Children

To Make "Balanced Diet" Easy

It's a delicious new-day bread that mothers everywhere are praising. Exactly what it offers.

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

WE prefer to sell Wonder Bread to homes where there are children. Children above all suffer from lack of balanced diet. Wonder Bread does much in correcting this.

Being rich in carbohydrates, it builds up that vital "energy reserve" and thus combats listlessness remarkably. Your children, through its daily use, discover a new zest for play.

Please, always consider these benefits when ordering bread. And above all remember they come to you in a bread considered by domestic scientists the most delicious ever baked.

How We Make It

To make it we employ matchless chefs. They work in model kitchens. We never hurry them.

We use a specially milled "short patent" flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used. We use double the usual amount of milk. And we pasteurize every drop.

These ingredients are expensive. But they do give a vastly better bread. And so we profit through tremendous extra sales.

We also employ a unique baking method.

ITS DELICATE flavor delights the children

Wonder Bread is "slo-baked." This means, as the term suggests, slower baking and more careful baking. It brings you more delicate flavor. Greater digestibility plus longer-lasting freshness.

Won't You Try It Today?

Wonder Bread is the new-day bread. It is bound to displace ordinary brands in any careful home.

So get it for your children and for yourself. See the remarkable benefits it brings.

Try a loaf this day. There is no extra cost.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes must be crisper, more delicious—or 12,000,000 people would not daily prefer them to all other corn flakes. Kellogg originated corn flakes and nobody has ever been able to equal that Kellogg wonder flavor. You'll appreciate the difference when you compare them.

Enjoy Kellogg's Corn Flakes for lunch and dinner as well as breakfast. Fine for the children's evening meal. So easy to digest. Try them with canned peaches—with milk or cream.

Look for the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FOUR GENERAL TYPES OF TABLE SERVICE

They Outline the Accepted Regulation for the Service of Meals.

In former days housewives knew very little about table service and the serving of meals.

Times have changed very materially since the feminine portion of the world left home to battle with industry, the professional world, and commercial activities.

For constant attendance at restaurants and lunch counters impresses women and girls, embryo housewives and cooks, with the advantages of the various ways of serving meals.

As a matter of fact, there are four general types of serving food, Russian, English, family service and compromise service.

Here is a short description of them:

1. Russian: The most formal and elegant service which we have is appropriate for formal luncheons and dinners. No food is on the table, but is served from the pantry, arranged on individual plates or, in suitable dishes, is presented by an attendant to each person, who serves himself. This form of service must not be attempted without a sufficient number of well-trained maids. At least one waitress should be provided for every six or seven persons.

2. English: The more hospitable form, with a degree of formality. The food is served from the table by the host and hostess or some other member of the family, the waitress assisting but little except in placing and removing courses. Everything pertaining to each course is removed before the next course is placed.

3. Compromise: Combines the Russian and the English. Part of the food is served from the pantry and part from the table; one waitress only is necessary for the average family. Soups, salads, desserts, may be served either from the pantry or by the hostess.

4. Family Service: Two or all of the courses may be placed on the table at the same time. The present tendency is to reduce the number of courses to one or two at breakfast and luncheon and two or three at dinner. The degree of formality depends upon the hostess, who will find that a serving table or a service cart simplifies her problems, not only for holding dishes and silver, but for keeping extra foods, salads and desserts to save trips to the kitchen. Formality may be dispensed with in clearing the table by removing two plates at once.

Certain general rules may be observed in the service of meals. For the most part, however, it must be borne in mind that gradually conventional, but not arbitrary rules, have been built up for the serving and partaking of foods. The fundamental principle of these rules is the consideration of others. Unnecessary formality usually creates an awkward situation.

COOKIES AND SMALL CAKES ARE QUITE THE THING

In Earlier Times Cookies Were Made to Please and Satisfy Children.

The increasing demand for new cookie recipes is responded to by the publication of directions for making gypsy brown cookies and crispy coconut cakes.

Gypsy Brown Cookies. Take two and three-fourths cup graham flour, one and one-half cups cake flour, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup shortening, one cup sour milk, two teaspoons vanilla, one cup raisins, chopped, two cup coconut and two cups sugar.

Sift each flour once, measure and combine. Add soda and salt and sift together three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour and milk alternately, a small amount at a time. Beat after each

Mr. C. Beck is the sole owner and proprietor of the Beck Grocery of 4060 Laclede Ave. Mr. Beck is a consistent booster of Stanard's Royal Patent Flour and does not sell any other kind. He says: "I sell a great deal of Stanard's Royal Patent Flour. Many of my customers have used it for years. They come in, ask for it by name, and say that they will not have any other brand. They tell me that no other flour gives such good baking results as Stanard's Royal Patent Flour. Also that it actually costs less than others, because they get more baking out of each sack. I couldn't run my store without Royal Patent. I have such a fine business with it."

addition until smooth. Add vanilla and raisins. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Cover thickly with coconut. Bake in hot oven seven minutes.

Crispy Coconut Cakes.

Take three cups coconut, one-half cup condensed milk, one tea-spoon vanilla. Combine ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape into small cakes about one inch in diameter and one-half inch high. Place on greased baking sheets and bake in a moderate oven for from 15 to 20 minutes, or until a delicate cup condensed milk, one tea-spoon vanilla.

Oh, so good. Delicious in salads and cocktails... wonderful for sandwiches... delightful in hot dishes, too.

Splendid for the system because it's rich in phosphorous and iodine, those goiter-resisting elements. The preferred brand for more than 16 years... packed in the spotless kitchens of the world's largest tuna canner.

Look to these two elements

If your child fails to gain in weight or shows other signs of under development, look to the diet. See that it contains plenty of Calcium and Vitamin A. For these two food elements are mostly responsible for straight bones, sound teeth and normal healthy growth. "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese supplies both these in abundance—more than milk itself, and should be a part of the child's daily fare. As a spread for bread with jam or jelly at meals or between; for the school lunch, and as a part of fruit or vegetable salads. Remember that real "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese is never sold in bulk.

If you agree with the doctors ... try THIS YEAST ... it tastes good

The doctors are quite right—we should eat fresh yeast. We should eat it regularly—3 cakes every day—either with meals or between meals.

Because, when eaten regularly and over a sufficient period of time, fresh yeast offsets the handicaps to health which every person living under modern conditions must contend with.

Gently and naturally, it stimulates the intestinal muscles, gradually strengthening them. Before long, elimination becomes regular and complete. The appetite again takes on the keen edge of youth. Digestion improves. Vitality and alertness increase.

Thousands of people who formerly could not eat yeast under any circumstances are now eating Busch Yeast regularly—and eating it with real relish. They find that this wonderful new yeast really tastes good. And that you can eat and enjoy it just as it comes to you in the gold-foil wrapper, fresh and cold.

Busch Yeast is the result of more than 70 years' experience in yeast culture. It's the kind of a yeast that appeals to taste-sensitive people who want the very finest that money can buy—and who realize that extra quality must cost a little more.

If you want a super-quality yeast with the fine flavor of food—a more potent, quicker-acting yeast that you will enjoy eating—ask your dealer for Busch Yeast by name. Eat it regularly for the next 30 days and see what a wonderful difference it makes in the way you look and feel. You will be amazed and delighted.

CHAPTER 5.

the fog of London we were on a spring morning at the garden and from Cherbourg. Raymond met us at the station and had his hair grow over his ears and wore a down collar and a flowing robe. He was somewhat astonished at our metamorphosis but he explained to us that this was the fashion of the Latin Quarter where he took us to his lodgings. He took us to a little midday restaurant down the stairs, and we sat at a table of red cloth. After the red wine we set out to look for a studio. Raymond and I went to the streets saying "What a studio!" What we did know was that "studio" does mean a studio in France.

I had to sleep on the chests as best we could. Charles Noufflard was a constant visitor and one day he brought to our studio two of his comrades, a pretty youth, called Jacques Beaunier, and a young literary man called Andre Beaunier. Charles Noufflard was very proud of me and delighted to show me to his friends as a phenomenal American product. Naturally I was then studying the music of Chopin's preludes, waltzes and mazurkas. My mother played extremely well, with the firm, strong touch of a man, and with great feeling and insight, and she would accompany me for hours. It was then that Jacques Beaunier had the idea of asking his mother, Mme. de St. Marceau, the wife of the sculptor, to have me dance one evening for her friends.

Mme. de St. Marceau had one of the most artistic and chic salons in Paris and a rehearsal was arranged in the studio of our band. At the piano sat a most remarkable man, with the fingers of a wizard. I was instantly attracted to him. "Quel ravissement!" he exclaimed, "quel charme! Quelle joie!" And, taking me in his arms he kissed me on the cheeks, in French fashion. He was Messenger, the great composer. The evening of my debut arrived. I danced before a group of people so kind, so enthusiastic that I was quite overcome. They scarcely waited for the end of a dance to call out, "Bravo, bravo!" and at the end of the first dance a tall figure, with piercing eyes, rose and embraced me. "What is your name?" he asked. "Isadora," I replied. "What is your pet name?" "When I was a little girl they called me Dorita."

Then, Madame de St. Marceau took my hand and said, "This is the great Sardan." In fact that room held all who counted in Parisian life, and, when had left the studio in the de la Galette and, with the aid of our little savings, we had a large studio in the Avenue. Raymond arranged a studio in a most original manner, taking sheets of tin foil, he had them and placed them over the gas jets, allowing the gas to pass through them like old Roman lamps, thereby considerably reducing our gas bills. This studio may mother remember music and, as in our previous days, for hours and hours we would play Chopin, Beethoven and Brahms. Raymond painted Greek statues round the walls and we had a few carved chests in which we kept our mattresses. At night we slept on the chests and Raymond discovered his famous sandals, which he wore in an indecent disposition and he spent the quarters of the night working on his inventions and hammering while my poor mother and

I left, covered with flowers and compliments, my three cavaliers, Noufflard, Jacques Beaunier, and Andre Beaunier, escorted me home, beaming with pride and satisfaction because their little phenomenon had been such a success.

Of these three young men the one who was to become my greatest friend was not the tall and pleasant Charles Noufflard, the good-looking Jacques Beaunier, but the rather under-sized pale-faced Andre Beaunier. He was pale and round-faced and wore glasses, but what a mind! I was always "cerebrale," and although people will not believe it, my love affairs of the head, of which I had many, were as interesting to me as those of the heart. Andre, who was at that time writing his first books, "Petrarch" and "Simonde," came every day to see me, and it was through him that I became acquainted with all the finest French literature.

By this time I had learned to read and converse fairly easily in French, and Andre Beaunier would read aloud to me in our studio for long afternoons and evenings. His voice had a cadence in it that was exquisitely sweet. He read to me the works of Moliere, Flaubert, Theophile Gautier, Maupassant, and he was the first to read to me Maeterlinck's "Pelleas et Melisande" and the modern French books of the day. Every afternoon there was a timid knock of the door of the studio. It was Andre Beaunier, always with a new book or magazine under his arm. My mother could not understand my enthusiasm for this man, who was not her beau ideal of what a lover should be, for as I have said before, he was fat and small with small eyes and one had to be a "cerebrale" to understand that those eyes were sparkling with wit and intelligence. Often, when he had read to me for two or three hours, we went off on the top of a Seine bus and rode down to the Ile de la Cite to gaze at Notre Dame in the moonlight. He knew every figure of the facade and could tell me the history of every stone. Then we would walk home and now and then I would feel the timid pressure of Andre's fingers on my arm. On Sundays, too, we would take a train and go out to Marly. There is a scene in one of Beaunier's books in which he describes these walks in the forest—how I used to dance before him down the paths, beckoning to him like a nymph or dryad bubbling with laughter. He appeared one morning with a white, tragic countenance. He would not confide to me what was the reason of his emotion, but remained silent with set face and eyes staring before him and on leaving kissed me on the forehead in such a significant manner that I had a premonition that he was going to his death and remained in painful anxiety until—three days later—he returned in brilliant spirits and confessed he had fought a duel and wounded his adversary. I never knew for what reason the duel took place. In fact, I knew nothing of his personal life. He generally appeared at 5 or 6 each afternoon, and then he read to me or took me for walks, according to the weather or my mood. Once we sat at the opening where four roads cross in the Bois de Meudon. He named the right-hand Fortune, the left Peace . . . and the road straight ahead Immortality and "Where we are sitting?" I asked. "Love," he replied in a low voice. "Then I prefer to remain here," I exclaimed delighted—but he only said: "We can't remain here," and rose and walked very fast down the road straight ahead.

Very disappointed and puzzled, I trotted after him calling out: "But why, but why, why do you leave me?" But he didn't speak again all the way home and left me abruptly at the door of my studio. This quaint and passionate friendship had lasted over a year when in the innocence of my heart I had dreamt to give it another expression. One evening I plotted to send Mother and Raymond to the opera and to be alone—that afternoon I clandestinely bought a bottle of champagne. That evening, I set a little table with flowers, champagne, two glasses—and I donned a transparent tunic and thus awaited Andre, feeling just like Thais. He arrived, seemed very astonished and terribly embarrassed—he would hardly touch the champagne. I danced for him, but he seemed distracted and finally left abruptly saying he had a great deal of writing to finish that evening. I was left alone with the roses and the champagne and I wept bitterly. (Continued Tomorrow.) (Copyright, 1929.)

Helen Keller Tells How She "Hears" Birds by Touch

HOW Helen Keller learned to "hear" birds sing through the sense of touch, is one of the interesting chapters of her life related by the most famous deaf and blind woman of the world in the American Magazine.

Her first bird-song was that of the whippoorwill. Since that time she has become able to distinguish the songs of various birds, sense the humming of bees and humble bees, enjoy brooks, rivers and oceans and flights through the air, all through vibrations. Telling how she acquired the ability to distinguish bird songs, she describes how she "heard" the song from the balcony of an old farmhouse near Wrentham, Mass. "My teacher, Mrs. John A. Macy," she says, "had the balcony built for me opening out of my bedroom so that I could walk there whenever I wanted to. The evergreens came so close to the railing that I could lean over and hear their rustling music. At the opposite end I fastened an orchard and the apple trees were in full bloom. I was standing under a wistaria vine when the rail of the balcony began to vibrate unfamiliarly under my hands. The pulsations were rhythmic and repeated over and over, exactly as I have felt a note repeated when I have placed my fingers on a singer's throat. All at once they ceased and I felt the wistaria blossom tickling against my cheek like the pendulum of a fairy clock. I guessed that a breeze or a bird was rocking the vine. Then the rail began vibrating again. A queer beat came always before the rhythmic beat like nothing I had ever felt before. I did not dare to move or call, but Mrs. Macy had heard the sound and put out her hand through the window and touched me very quietly.

"She spelled: 'That's a whippoorwill.' He is standing on the corner post so close to you I believe you could touch him; but you must not—he would fly away and never come back."

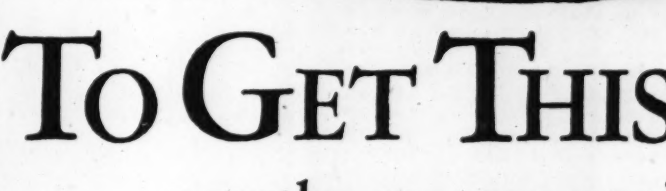

"Now I knew he was saying, 'Whippoorwill.' Whippoorwill! Over and over I could follow the rhythmic notes. The singing seemed joyous to my touch and I could feel the notes grow louder and louder, faster and faster. "Mrs. Macy touched me again and spelled, 'His lady love is answering him from the apple trees. Apparently she has been there all the time, hiding. Now they are singing a duet.' When the rail stopped vibrating, she spelled that they were both in the apple tree singing among the blossoms."

If children must have dinner in the evening this meal should be served at an hour to give ample time for digestion before bedtime. Aged people should eat their heartiest meal in the middle of the day and a light supper is advisable for them. Sliced boiled beets make attractive garnishes for salads.

Whether the hearty meal of the day should be served at noon or evening must depend upon the convenience of the family. In the family where the adults are in business and the children at school the noon meal should be dinner served at noon. Adults who do heavy physical labor require a heavy meal in the middle of the day to supply the demand for fuel. Where the entire family leads a sedentary life lunch may be served in the middle of the day. Business and office people, as a rule, lead sedentary lives and for them a light meal at noon is preferable. The evening, when body and mind are relaxed should be their dinner hour, for it is then that digestion is more easily carried on.

Cleaning Enamel Paint

ENAMELED painted woodwork can be washed with hot water without harm to the gloss. It is the soap that dulls enamel, therefore do not use soap. Use a soft cloth, preferably wool or cotton flannel. Wring this out of hot water and rub with the grain of the wood, then rub with a clean dry cloth. The hot water will dissolve grease or dirt spots, but if these are stains that will not yield to the hot water alone, try a fine scourer, such as whiting, but even this must be applied lightly to avoid scratching the surface. Dress weights will hold down the unruly rug, if sewn flat on the underneath side right where the rug is inclined to turn up.

PEPPING UP THE SKIN.

THE other day we talked about spring cleaning for the skin. Today we mean to dilate on the subject of EXERCISE FOR THE SKIN. Just about this time of year, the best of skins is likely to grow dull and lazy and pasty. A perfectly natural reaction to a winter of heavy heat producing foods, a minimum of exercise and being cooped up in overheated homes and offices.

Perhaps the quickest and best way to pep up a sluggish skin is to treat it with a stimulating action cream or ointment. There are several such excellent preparations in the beauty market and the results they produce can pretty accurately be described as marvelous. What they do is to bring blood surging up to the surface of the skin, almost immediately upon being applied. No little discomfort accompanies these treatments, as a rule, but the final effect is well worth the temporary pricking and stinging, it seems to us.

Needless to say all this is a highly artificial form of stimulation and therefore not to be practiced often. Unless a skin is stubbornly sallow and "leathery," once a week is sufficient for the stimulating treatment. In the meantime there should be plenty of spanking and patting of the face. Spank and pat when applying creams and lotions, spank and pat and slap when drying the face after washing.

Applications of hot cloths to the face before cleansing with cream is recommended, too, that being another way to coax the blood up into the tired tissues and inactive pores. Still another means of putting a skin speedily "in the pink," is to cleanse the face and neck with a halved lemon in lieu of cream or water or any other form of cleanser. Oily skins in particular respond amazingly well to this treatment, but dry skins usually require generous creaming before and after the lemon "wash" to replace their rather limited supply of natural oil.

The woman whose skin tires with the rest of her will do well to add to her daily setting up exercises—if any—the well known and amusing stunt of walking about for five or ten minutes each morning and night, on all fours. The obvious object being to flush the face with a new supply of cleansing clearing blood. (Copyright, 1929.)

Exert Influence on Market—Few Specialties Move Against Main Trend
ALL RESERVE BANKS
HAVE SAME RATE

Adams Express Sells at 600 or 150 Points Below Peak Price for the Year.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Stiffening credit conditions: imparted a decidedly reactionary tone to prices in today's stock market. A few specialties moved against the current trend, some of them to new high ground, but most of the standard industrials were under selling pressure as nervous traders and investors withdrew from the market and some professional operators extended their "short" lines. Some of the selling probably was inspired by commission houses suspecting that another severe credit stringency was in prospect about the end of the month, and that higher rediscount rates seemed inevitable. One ray of hope was the fact that sterling is now around the point where gold imports would be profitable, but bankers doubt that Great Britain will permit any heavy drain on its gold without raising the Bank of England rate.

Adams Express, making its first appearance on the tape this week, sold at 600, or 150 points below the previous sale, and 150 points below the year's high. Commercial Solvents fell 6 1/2, U. S. Steel common showed a net loss of 2 points at 74 1/2, and American Can, Consolidated Gas, American Smelting, Packard Motors and several other point leaders declined a point or so. American Commercial Alcohol was marked up 3 1/2 points to a new high at 52 in anticipation of an early inauguration of distilling. Color Wheel, Stromberg Carburator, Burroughs Adding Machine and Sparks Withington also sold at new high prices for the year. With the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank raising its rediscount rate to 5 per cent this week, and all 12 central banks at the same level, and directors of the New York and Chicago banks reported in favor of a high rate, speculators for the advance found the encouragement for a resumption of buying operations. Time money rates were reported to have stiffened, with 9 1/2 per cent now asked for some maturities.

Bank Rate Rise Effects. Raising of the bank rate at San Francisco, which marked the passage of the last bank in the system from the 4 1/2 per cent basis, undoubtedly exerted much influence on the trend of speculative thought. It was accepted in many quarters as more or less supporting reports that both the Chicago and New York Reserve banks have been seeking, but without success, permission of the board to put up their rates. Market circles have taken an advance along that line, and the stand right along that rate
